Cameron Team In State Play-Offs

Cardinals Insure Top State Berth

Cameron's Little League Cardinals insured a top berth in State Little League playoffs with 3 wins Monday and Tuesday at Brownwood. They are Cameron's first team to qualify for state Little League playoffs.

The Cardinals went to state by defeating three area teams, two with previously undefeated season records, at regional play-offs in Robinson last week.

Taking a first game 13 - 3 loss at Brownwood Monday morning against Odessa, the Cardinals stayed in the playoffs with an 8 - 0 win against Martha Monday night and a 14 - 7 win over Palestine Tuesday.

It was an up - hill climb for the Cardinals who lost 3 early games in the Cameron Little League schedule, then recorded a string of wins that put them in local playoffs and a final undisputed 15 - 4 win over the Indians for the Cameron crown.

Pitted against the top teams from area cities, the Cardinals, with "pick-up" players Dennis Hollas, Mark Michalka and Joe Smitherman, scored three straight wins at regional play-offs to take that trophy and the bid for state.

Between the regional victory at Robinson and state playoffs at Brownwood came fast footwork on the part of Little League officers and team members' parents.

Contacts Saturday brought community support that financed the trip to Brownwood and team members, coaches and parents left Sunday afternoon.

Contributions came from Andler Lumber Co., Milam Auto Supply, Ray Goetz, Gus Plental, New Cameron Drug Western Auto, Schiller Pharmacy, Ray Lester, Weld Hardware, Mack's Oil, Bernice's, Max Shumate, George Hollas, Penny's, Schutts, Citizens National Bank, Irvings, Lewis Child Shoe Store, Lincoln Mondrik, and First National Bank.

Herald Has New 'Twist' For Renewal

The Herald is sending out new return-address subscription envelopes this week.

You receive the envelope addressed and stamped just as any envelope of this type.

To open, pull the left-hand addressed side of the envelope loose. The flap will reveal the front-side portion of the postage-paid, return envelope.

Turn the envelope over where it tells the amount owed and the date of expiration. On the left side you will see instructions on how to make your remittance and how to seal the envelope for return, postage free.

Instructions are: "Detach other side, insert remittance. And seal by removing tape shield and folding over."

Your check or money order is inserted in the end of the envelope and sealed by the flap just over the open end of envelope.

All that remains is to drop the envelope containing your remittance in the mail. The Herald pays the postage.

Celia Brings 1st Rain In 62 Days

Cameron's first rain in 62 days fell Monday accompanied by winds estimated at 30 miles per hour. Although dropping only a scant .22 inch of rain, the afternoon shower gave local gardeners a brief rest from months of daily watering.

The wind and rain, spawned by Hurricane Celia, brought the total rainfall for the year to 19.16 in Cameron.

Meanwhile, in the Corpus Christi area, Hurricane Celia with winds gusting over 145 miles per hour left a path of wrecked homes, roofless buildings, overturned cars and streets littered with broken glass.

Some refugees from the stricken area arrived in Milam County late Monday, but most had sought shelter further south.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. officials said one employee from Rockdale had joined a team of telephone repairmen that left Austin at 5 a.m. Tuesday to restore telephone communication in the storm area.

County Patrolman Jerry Randall of Rockdale was among Department of Public Safety personnel dispatched to the coastal disaster scene.

James Hollas, former Cameron Herald newsman now with the Corpus Christi Caller Times, made phone connection with his family in Cameron Tuesday afternoon reporting an "unbelievable scene of destruction."

Hollas said all streets were blocked with fallen trees, twisted automobiles and broken glass.

The 26 inch rain reported here was far below what agriculture advisors says is needed for county cotton crops. At least two inches of rain is needed this week for the parched cotton crop.

Traffic Mishaps Injure 2

A rash of "fender benders" was reported by Cameron Police Department and county DPS patrolmen, however only minor injuries were reported in two of the traffic mishaps.

John Wayne Klein of Killen was treated in a local hospital for a broken arm and bruises following a motorcycle - car accident Monday shortly after noon.

Klein's motorcycle collided with a car driven by Elbridia G. Vasquez of Cameron at the intersection of 4th and Jefferson. She was ticketed for failure to yield right of way.

A collision at North Austin and Highway US 77 Sunday sent Mrs. Minnie Vybral to a local hospital where she was treated for bruises. The car in which she was riding, driven by Ben Vybral of Rt. 4 Cameron, collided with a car driven by Linda A. Laywell of Cameron. Vybral was ticketed for following too close.

Another Sunday accident was reported by DPS Patrolman Milton Wright. According to Wright, a pickup driven by Jerry Don Barton of Rt. 3 Cameron apparently collided with the rear of a car driven by John C. Jetter of Rosenberg.

That accident occurred at 6:10 p.m. Sunday 1.2 miles south of the city on US 77.

Other accidents were at Washington and 16th Saturday at about 6 p.m. and at North Travis and W. 4th Thursday at 5:30 p.m.

Joe Colbert of Cameron was ticketed for driving on the wrong side of the road and Fred A. Reed of Cameron ticketed for failure to yield right of way in Saturday's accident.

Rosco W. Speer of Cameron was ticketed for improper backing in the Thursday mishap involving a station wagon driven by Gary Lynn Strutz, also of Cameron.

TB Tests Scheduled For 1st, 7th Grades

Cameron first and seventh graders will receive Tuberculosis skin tests this fall according to CUSD officials.

The TB skin tests will be given to all students in the two classes during September and readings will be taken of all children tested after a three-day period.

He was shot in the side the first time, he testified, then as he was backing away, Ralph Cobb got out of the pickup truck and shot him a second time in the chest near his heart, knocking him down.

He was taken to a hospital in Bryan, he said, and remained hospitalized eleven days.

Clarence Cobb was still on the witness stand Tuesday afternoon when court was recessed until Wednesday morning by Judge Wallace. His later testimony mostly concerned his mental and physical condition after the shooting, which he said included pains in the chest and arm, and inability to perform hard physical work as before. He also listed financial losses he had incurred.

The jury was completed about 11:45 Tuesday morning. Jurors are: W. N. Galbreath, Bentley L. Hause, Secorro Garza, Wm. B. (Mike) Lee, Charles Kunz, Eliza Smith, Lee O. Keen, W. O. Schlader, Edward Garcia, B. L. Milner, Ben Hardie Bailey and Gus Backhouse III.

As they reached it, he asked Kinney to open the gate, but Kinney said it was wired shut. Clarence Cobb said he rode up, dismounted from his horse, and looked at the gate. Then he saw Ralph Y. Cobb sitting in a pickup nearby.

On cross examination, when asked if Ralph Cobb had not said he wired the gate closed and not to open it, he replied he said something indistinguishable. Earlier it was stated that Ralph Cobb had leased that tract of the estate land.

Clarence Cobb testified he then started walking toward the pickup truck and saw Ralph Cobb pull a gun and told him, "Put the damn gun up."

111

With F.M.L.

Somewhere it was reported this week that a computer suggested a Department of Public Welfare be retitled "Department of Human Resources."

That's one computer whose programmer imparted a wholly uncomputer-like sense of humor.

There is a current song called "What goes up must come down." With computers, one could paraphrase their function with the observation "what prints out must program in."

Computers are programmed to write poetry, song lyrics, figure all manner of complex mathematics equation. But in any case, they only do at incredible speed what they are told.

Tiny transistors, barely the size of pin points, retain the ability to function on call when certain items of information cross the storage of data on tape, disc or some other means of memory.

Millions of these transistors enable the large computers to calculate in lightning arithmetic response to new information working through the particular program used at a given time.

If The Herald mails a subscription notice to a subscriber, the memory storage in the computer already records the name, address and amount of a subscription per year. The computer is activated to call up this information when an operator asks it to print out this information, by a code number, for a certain month of the year.

The Herald subscription notice then is printed out, on continuous pre-printed sheets of envelopes, the address, date of expiration and amount for renewal. The rate of printing the envelopes is about 400 lines a minute, or much faster than by calculator, typewriter or hand.

This facility enables certain economies to be passed on to the subscriber, such as a return address envelope and free return postage.

Beside all this serious stuff, a computer can do all sort of things for fun, one supposes, like suggesting emphasis on "human resources" in a day when the computer comes into its own.

It might be one day Herald computers will write this column much more humorously than 111. It would be nice to walk up and ask:

"Computer, it's August, so-called 'dog days' and I'm fresh out of material. Do something funny, say in 400 words or less, that will entertain and delight."

The computer might respond with a funny sketch on writers inhibited by August doldrums.

so funny that twice weekly you would read an interesting or funny column on whatever struck the computer as interesting or funny that day.

And it would come up with something like: "The State Welfare Department would be better known as the Department of Human Resources in a day when over-emphasis is given the advantages of fantastic computers which print out information at the rate of 400 lines a minute." And then, in sympathy with "man's inhumanity to man,"

Now that would be funny.

New Pupils To Register

New students in grades 1 - 5 who have not attended a Cameron public school are asked to register Monday, August 10 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 until 4 p.m.

Registration will be in the office of the principal at Ada Henderson Elementary School for all these students.

The newcomers should bring their health and school records from the school they attended previously.

Arnett Zelisko, elementary principal, urges parents to register new students to avoid delay on the opening day of school.

"What, oh what, will a nickel buy?" could well be the cry of youngsters in the inflation-ridden 1970's. The nickel in Junior's pocket will likely stay there if toys or sweets are his desire.

The 5-cent candy bar has gone the way of the nickel whistle-slightly improved (in the candy bar case that means a fraction larger) but now costing a dime.

Although some local stores still have a stock of 5-cent gum, as soon as it is sold replacement stock will be joining the ranks of the once nickel roll of Life-savers - now selling for 7 and 8 cents a package.

Although 5-cent candy bars are still available, as one local clerk remarked "they're so small it's hardly worth the trouble to unwrap them." And few stores offer them for sale.

City To Resume Paving Program

City Council agreed Tuesday evening to renew a street paving program for several residential areas on an assessment basis.

The paving plans were started in October of last year and were postponed when demands on street budget funds caused the budget to run over.

Mayor E. A. Perrin recommended to Councilmen that plans be resumed, with continuation of solicitation by residents living on the streets to be paved, and preparations for the assessment program starting.

Streets included in paving plans are:

North Crockett from 4th and 12th.

SEASON TICKETS NOW ON SALE FOR YOE GAMES

Yoe High School officials have announced the schedule for buying season tickets for the five Yoeen home games scheduled this fall.

Persons who have held reserve season tickets before, have first choice and can pick up their 1970 tickets at the school office until August 14 between 8 a.m. and 12 noon and 1 until 4 p.m.

Adult reserve season tickets in B and C sections are $8, student reserve season tickets in B section, $2.50.

After August 14, reserve season ticket sales will be open to the public. Presale tickets at school for students will be 75 cents. Other prices will be $1.50 for students and adults at the gate or $2 for reserve tickets at the gate.

cal "5 and Dimes" find their choices limited when there is only 5 cents to spend.

Skate keys or a package of "pea shooter" peas still go for a nickel, but without skates for the key or a shooter to aim the peas through, about the only recourse is a decorated balloon.

North Austin from 16th to High US 77.

North Jackson from 18th to 22nd.

East 13th from Milam to Jackson.

20th from Fannin to end of street.

Karnes from 16th to 22nd.

Streets Supt. James Hale has recommended that base work on streets to be paved start this fall and winter to facilitate packing and settling.

Better Library, More Books . . .

The Cameron Public Library now has about 8,000 volumes on its shelves, up from the original 3,000 volumes moved there when it opened in May, 1966.

Book count in the newer building, now about to undergo some basic repair on foundation, has then almost tripled in four years.

That is more than 40 per cent increase each year since the new structure opened. And it is only part of the program. A story hour is underway each week during this part of summer.

A small library of records for check out is available as well as increasing reference works and offering a cultural center for library boosters and related functions.

Cameron Public Library has proved an asset to the community and outlying areas it serves, no wider because of the reduced numbers of people within the Milam trade area.

Made even better by these additional books and current building improvement, Cameron Public Library is indeed a place where ideas and progress begin.

Industry, People, Political Power

WHAT OTHERS SAY . . .

The 1968 presidential election showed how political power was ebbing from the once almost dominant states of the Northeast. Now current studies of development trends show how industrial power is doing the same. Thus the economics department of McGraw-Hill finds that by 1975 some 47 percent of the country's industrial output will come from what it describes as the southern tier of states as compared with only 34 percent as recently as 1953. This is a phenomenally swift shift in industrial development.

Obviously, these findings have immense implications. Many of the states now developing most swiftly in industry are also among the fastest growing population.

They are, therefore, draining off congressional representation from both the Northeast and the upper Middle West. Furthermore, these states tend, on the whole, to be politically conservative.

Aside from the political implications, the change in the nation's industrial balance also has far-reaching economic and social meaning. Unless the Northeast can halt the trend or find new ways to self-development, its cities, already in dire straits, will find their problems steadily aggravated and the tax structure, the highest in the nation, will become still less favorable. Thus the swift shift in industrial power presents America with one more grave national challenge.

NATURAL GAS SHORTAGE LOOMS

Rep. Frank T. Bow (Ohio) "... In my continuing study of the serious implications of a natural gas shortage, I have come upon an excellent statement on the situation by Herbert D. Clay, president of the National Fuel Gas Co., to the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs. . . ." (The condensed statement follows.)
Mr. Chairman, my name is Herbert D. Clay. I am President of the National Fuel Gas Company and Chairman of the Government Relations Committee of the American Gas Association (A.G.A.). I am appearing today on behalf of A.G.A. and the National Fuel Gas Company. Both organizations are greatly concerned about the domestic natural gas supply situation and our ability to satisfy rapidly increasing consumer demands.
I would like to emphasize a few principal points in about a 10-minute summary.
On December 15, 1968, the American Gas Association (A.G.A.) through a letter from its then President W. Morton

Jacobs to the Federal Power Commission took what was admittedly an extraordinary step. The A.G.A. letter said distributors were having difficulty in contracting for increases in long-term gas supplies and recommended that the Federal Power Commission act to provide additional economic incentives for exploration and development. THIS MEANT HIGHER FIELD PRICES WHICH MOST DISTRIBUTORS HAD IN THE PAST VIGOROUSLY RESISTED.
This was neither a timid nor a reckless step by A.G.A. It was taken only after very careful consideration. In major public interest or government matters, NO ONE LIKES TO DO AN ABOUT FACE. But it was deemed necessary at the time, and events have supported that decision.
In April 1969 we reached that point of "real cause for concern," because reserves added did not keep up. WE FOUND LESS THAN WE PRODUCED--40% LESS.
Certain gas companies in the heart of the industrial midwest curtailed their activities for new business and began to deny accounts which they had sought for years. One company had to shut down some major industrial plants for 6 days during the peak January cold spell--the FIRST TIME THAT HAD EVER HAPPENED. A north central pipeline withdrew a major expansion proposal for lack of supply. Evidence of actual shortage was no longer theoretical or prospective, IT WAS HERE.

Suffice to say, there is no doubt whatsoever that we have a serious domestic natural gas shortage.

There isn't just a gas shortage. There's an energy shortage. And there are impelling public interest reasons why the solution to our particular part of the energy shortage should have top priority.

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

The natural gas producers, the people who drill the wells, and the distributors, the people who supply the consumer, belong to different organizations.
The producers want a higher price at the wellhead, regulated by the Federal Power Commission, to encourage exploration. The distributors have resisted a wellhead price increase, which they have to pay, because it means passing it along to the consumer. And consumers get very unhappy with price increases. But a possible gas shortage has forced the distributors to do "an about face," as Mr. Clay states.
There is no shortage of natural gas reserves under-

Campaigns Shaping On Proposed Amendments

By Vern Sanford

CAMERON, TEXAS (Herald Staff Writer)—Campaigns are shaping up on some of the seven proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on by Texans at the General Election on November 3. While public interest centers on the liquor - by - the - drink amendment, there are other major alterations in the state's laws to be considered by the voters. In their order on the ballot, these are:

1. Enlarge the powers of the Judicial Qualifications Commission to censure or remove lower court judges and justices of the peace as well as district and appellate judges.
2. Authorize the legislature to enact a law on the sale of mixed drinks.
3. Provide for legislative establishment of a uniform method of tax assessment on ranch, farm and forest lands based on the capability of the lands to support the raising of livestock or production of farm and forest crops.
4. Make the State Building Commission a three - member appointive agency.
5. Permit counties to issue road bonds up to one-fourth of their assessed real property valuation on a majority vote.
6. Make town or city home-steads of $10,000 and less exempt from forced sale (presently set at $5,000).
7. Allow the legislature to provide for consolidating offices and functions of government and for performance of governmental functions by contract between the political subdivisions in any county.

Texas voters have adopted 195 amendments to the 1876 constitution, over the years, and rejected 125.

DESEGREGATION SUITS

Federal negotiators report that only a few of the 38 Texas school districts, called on the carpet concerning segregation, had satisfactory plans for complying with U. S. guidelines. They conducted a two-day conference with school officials here and gave most of them another week to try and work out something or face a lawsuit by the U. S. Justice Department.

Negotiators suggested "pairing" of adjoining neighborhood school districts to get better racial balance.

Lufkin, Marshall, Midland and Katy found no ground for agreement with the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and Justice Department negotiators. Some complained that federal officials raised a new issue . . . that of integrating Mexican-Americans, as well as blacks. Most want to continue their efforts to find a way to comply with suggested plans.

Palestine reached a tentative agreement on pairing plans involving two grades in each school and requiring limited busing.

COURTS SPEAK

Alcoholic Beverage Commission's rules governing private clubs are headed for a U. S. Supreme Court test after the highest state court finally upheld the agency's regulation. Club operators claim "king's-r" against the rules while their appeal is "diligently pursued." Texas will be among the first states to challenge constitution-ality of the new federal act extending voting rights to 18-year-olds.

State Supreme Court, splitting 5-4, held that a businessman could not collect a $10,000 libel judgement against a Denton newspaper for a story, based on an accurate account of a statement made at a city council meeting where it was erroneously reported that the man had declared bankruptcy.

La Raza Unida Party brought a mandamus suit in the Supreme Court to require its candidates' names to be placed on the general ballots in three South Texas counties (Dimmitt, LaSalle and Zavala).

Supreme Court agreed with an intermediate court decision that judges cannot grant occupational drivers' licenses just so those whose licenses have been suspended can get to work.

LOOPHOLE COSTS

State has lost millions in land revenue due to an old loophole in the law, which was temporarily closed last year.

State Land Office has been forced to sell submerged land for $1 an acre to any navigation district that wanted it. Another law permitted district to declare land so acquired surplus to their needs - and sell it to the highest bidder.

So, Arkansas County Navigation District, for example, acquired 604 acres near Rockport (in Little Bay) for $1 an acre, then resold to a corporation. Some 165 acres of property now is selling for $33,098 an acre.

Now, no more state-owned beaches, islands or submerged land may be sold or leased until the Interagency Natural Resources Council makes its final report to the legislature - or until May 31, 1973 - whichever date is first. Unless the legislature takes a permanent step, the Land Commissioner once more could be forced to sell land requested by navigation districts for $1 an acre.

RESERVE LAW SEMINAR SET

Highlight of a two-day Reserve Law Seminar which will be held in Austin Aug. 8-9 will be an address by Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes. The seminar, being held this year in conjunction with the annual convention of the Auxiliary Police and Reserve Law Officers Association of Texas, will feature a panel discussion by various person across the state who have direct dealings with Auxiliary and Reserve police.

TEXAS ECONOMY EVIDENCE

Joe H. Jones, special research associate with the UT Bureau of Business Research, reports that a recession in Texas economy was clearly in evidence through the first half of 1970, with prospects for a significant economic recovery within the next six months appearing unlikely.

GAS PRICE RISE URGED

Federal Power Commission at hearings on natural gas prices in the Permian Basin was urged to end pricing controls or raise rates fast and substantially.

Commission examiner reopened the Permian Basin rate case that resulted in the establishment in 1965 of ceiling rates at well-head.

Witnesses, including producers and political officeholders, called on the commission also to halt "two-price" system for wells drilled before 1961 and new wells.

Some called the 1965 regulation a dismal failure that led to the current shortage in gas reserves.

Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin pledged full resources of his office against any effort at federal regulation of Texas interstate gas market. FPC now regulates gas moving interstate.

Labor Secretary Cites Construction Industry Agreement

WASHINGTON
Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz has praised the Building and Construction Trades Department, AFL-CIO, and the national Participating Contractors Employers' Associations for their new agreement for settling costly jurisdictional disputes.

The two parties recently completed negotiations for amending the plan under which the 22-year-old National Joint Board settles jurisdictional disputes in the construction industry.
The National Joint Board is a home-grown solution to the amicable settlement of labor problems in the building and construction industry which would otherwise over-tax the facilities of the National Labor Relations Board and the Federal courts.

Although it is privately financed by parties to the agreement, the facilities of the National Joint Board are available without charge to all contractors dealing with organized labor in the building and construction industry.

LONE STAR GAS REPORTS RECORD GAIN OF 40.6%

Record earnings were achieved by Lone Star Gas Company for the periods ended June 30, 1970, according to L. T. Potter, chairman.

Potter reported earnings per share of $1.94 for the 12 months compared with $1.38 per share for the same period in 1969. Net income for the 12 months rose $8,211,555 to $28,457,601, a 40.6% gain. Total operating revenues of approximately $252 million were up 10.4%.

"Tight expense control was a major contributing factor in the net income advance," Potter said. "Other operating and maintenance expenses increased less than 4%."

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:
To get my mind off some first-of-the-month bills the other day I was resting and reading a newspaper under my favorite shade tree, the one that's lined up with two other trees so that when the sun moves the next tree picks up the shade, then the next, and I can stay in one place all afternoon without shifting positions -- I know some people who are so poorly equipped to thin, ahead and so unaware of the laws of nature they go to sleep in the shade and wake up in the sun -- and ran across an article that sort of pepped me up.
According to it, the head of a big financial conglomerate was explaining to his stockholders why the corporation was losing money and getting further and further into debt. "We are experiencing a negative cash flow," he said.
What this means, the writer of the article explained, was that the company was paying out more than it was taking in. In other words, he added, it couldn't make ends meet.

I prefer the company's explanation.
The trouble with this Johnson grass farm, for example, sounds a lot better when I say it's experiencing a negative cash flow rather than saying it's losing money.
Washington, for another example, would sound more comforting if it'd report a negative cash flow instead of a 3-billion-dollar budget deficit.
The trouble with a lot of people's financial situation these days is not inflation, rising costs of everything, higher taxes or over-spending, it's just that when they get to the end of the month they find their household is experiencing a negative cash flow.
What everybody needs is a positive cash flow.
I'm glad to get this cleared up.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Matters of Opinion

"This suit," the friendly salesman told Fred, "will wear like iron."

About a year later, Fred brought the suit back and asked for a refund. He complained that the fabric was beginning to show signs of deterioration. When the store turned him down, he went to court to demand damages for breach of contract.

"Their salesman promised me that the suit would wear like iron," he said. "That was a false statement."

Nevertheless, the court rejected Fred's claim. The court said the

"There are some kinds of talk which no sensible man takes seriously."
But the law is stricter when it comes to matters of fact. Take this situation:

A home owner, selling his house assured the buyer that it was "in perfect condition." But at the first rain, the buyer found out that the house was honey-combed with leaks. He also found out that the problem had existed for years, defying costly efforts to clear it up.

Here, a court upheld the buyer's claim for damages. The court said the seller's statement that the house was "in perfect condition" had been a deliberate misstatement of fact.

Even a statement of opinion may be held binding, if the buyer has some special reason to put his trust in that opinion.

In one case a promoter of oil stocks, after winning the confidence of an unsophisticated farmer, sold him some shares in an obscure company. He did so after expressing an opinion of the stock's value that was enormously exaggerated.

But a court later nullified the sale. The judge said that, in the confidential relationship between the parties, the promoter must have known his statement of opinion would carry the weight of a statement of fact.

A public service feature of the American Bar Association and the State Bar of Texas. Written by Will Bernard.

salesman's statement was merely an expression of opinion, not a binding commitment.

As a general rule, the law permits a seller of merchandise to do a good deal of boasting in matters of opinion. The reason, in the words of Judge Learned Hand:

washday is
toss'n wear
easy
with an electric dryer

You can put that iron away! Permanent press shirts and dresses come out of an electric dryer ready to wear. Soft and fluffy. Not a wrinkle in sight. An electric dryer is safe for all your other fabrics, too. Dries even your most delicate things gently. And when you dry electrically, washday can be any day. No more waiting for the sun to shine. No more trips out to the line. It's just one step from wet to dry. Make your next washday a happy day. It's toss'n wear easy with an electric dryer.

Buy Home Now? Reasons Good

Would you believe that now's the time to buy a house? Before you scream, "Interest rates are killers," consider a few key facts.

Yes, interest rates are high, but the analysts see no great decline for possibly years—the demand for money by government and business will keep the rates high.

Land costs and labor rates are expected to continue upward—the pressures are in that direction. Desirable sites in the growth areas are vanishing.

Builders are erecting fewer homes, as mobile homes and apartments push one-family conventional toward No. 3 ranking. The basic trends should add to the home buyer's confidence, most building and financing officials agree.

Short Course For Cattlemen

By J. D. Moore

Beef Cattle Short course - August 17-18 at Texas A&M University, Memorial Student Center. The 20th Beef Cattle Short Course has two things of special interest to cattlemen in this state.

The Computer Cow Program, which will cost an additional $10, furnishes an opportunity for cattle breeders to try their animal breeding methods on a 50 cow herd by selecting replacement heifers, herd bull prospects and cull cows based on production information.

This will be started at Monday morning, August 17 continued by mail for about eight weeks or until five generations have been completed. Registration for the Computer Cow Program must be made by August 12 so proper preparation can be made.

The second and most important part for commercial cattlemen is a report from 18 breed associations on the best documented production information that they have on their breed as it relates to efficient beef production. This will answer some of the questions on the new breeds that have been recently imported as well as the use of dairy breeding in beef production.

Short course registration will be $7.50, banquet ticket $4.50 plus $10.00 more for those participating in the Computer Cow Program.

TREE & SHRUB PROBLEMS

Drought stress brings to light many problems on trees and shrubs that have lurked in the background.

Plants with diseases or damaged root systems cannot absorb enough water and nutrients under summer drought stress conditions to furnish all plant parts. When this happens, tips of branches die back, and leaf tips are scorched. On some plant types, leaf shedding follows.

Several problems may be involved in producing a given symptom. There is a general tendency to simplify diagnosis to a single causal factor; however, response to treatment may be disappointing if other factors are not considered. Symptoms may develop over an extended period of time and likewise correction of that condition may require a longer period of time than desired.

A large number of plant specimens have been received in the Plant Disease Diagnostic Laboratory this summer with many of them having been damaged by plant pathogenic organisms. Very often, however, other factors are involved and these are often difficult to identify.

DROUGHT STRESS

Some conditions may be simply due to drought stress. Native plants should be less affected than introduced species.

On trees and large shrubs, leaves usually scorch around the leaf edges. When this occurs, there is either an insufficient moisture supply or the functional root system is insufficient to absorb suitable quantities of water.

OVERFERTILIZATION

Some shade trees and shrubs are being damaged by excess use of commercial fertilizers. Symptoms produced by this are also more evident during drought periods because the salt is concentrated in a smaller volume of water.

Damage has been observed on oak trees especially where an excess of 1,000 pounds of fertilizer has been used per acre per year. While such rates may be conducive to lush growth of lawn grass, it serves to burn roots of certain plants.

Oak tree roots are much nearer the surface than most homeowners realize, and lawn fertilization does affect them. Continued use of high rates over a period of years may have a cumulative effect that is detrimental to certain shade trees.

HERBICIDES

A number of specimens have been received this year where herbicides have been improperly used. In most cases, such damage occurred when a fertilizer containing herbicide was used around trees and shrubs.

In practically every case, homeowners admit the use of such products on the lawn, but deny their use around trees and shrubs. This presents us with an educational opportunity to indicate the extent of plant root development. It also opens the door to warn against indiscriminate use of pesticides especially encouraged by "combination" materials.

MECHANICAL INJURY

New home construction takes its toll of native shade trees each year leaving the homeowner wondering if he is a victim of some new plant disease epidemic.

Death of native trees damaged by construction usually occurs about three years after construction at which time their food reserves are depleted. This varies, of course, with initial vigor of the tree, extent of damage, and the type of tree involved.

Such damage can be prevented by following suggestions made in Extension publication "MP-788" entitled Protection of Existing Landscape Trees.

NATURAL GAS LEAKS

Natural gas is not very toxic to plants; yet, its presence in high concentrations in soil may prove fatal. It damages plants by replacing oxygen in the soil with methane gas, resulting in suffocation of the root system.

Plants may be saved if the leak can be detected and corrected in its early stages.

LAWN SUMMER NEEDS

Treat for chinch bugs - migrating chinch bugs are moving into those "better-kept" lawns for a place to over-winter. Three pounds of Diazinon 14 B granules per 1,000 sq. feet will solve this problem.

Next, fertilize with five pounds of ammonium nitrate per 1,000 sq. feet to re-vitalize the grass plants.

AG INFORMATION SCORES

Texas A&M's Department of Agricultural Information won 8 awards in the 1970 Communications Award Program sponsored by the National Association of American College Editors. The news section won excellent ratings on the Weekly News packet and radio script service; a very good on magazine service and white or good rating on a radio feature.

Poage Reports Farm Bill Debate

(Editor's Note: House farm leaders called off floor action on a new farm bill Monday. They said they wanted President Nixon's firm assurance that he would fight efforts to lower a committee-approved $55,000 limit on yearly farm payments.)

The proposed Farm Bill, now under debate in Washington, is "a good example of the way emotions play a larger influence than facts and figures in passing legislation," according to Cong. W. R. Poage.

The Central Texas Congressman, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said a great deal of misunderstanding exists about farm subsidy payments.

"Many people have over the years been led to believe that our farm program simply gives large operators vast sums of money without any contribution from these operators," Poage said in his weekly newsletter.

"It is just as foolish as stating that we are 'contributing' vast sums to wealthy landlords when we pay them for the property we take for either urban renewal or highway rights - of - way - and much of this criticism has been promoted by recipients of comparable subsidies.

"For instance, the Reader's Digest gets about $9 1/2 million postal subsidy, but it suggests that all farm payments should be limited to $20,000, and it won't give the other side a chance to be heard in its columns," Poage continued.

(Poage was referring to an article in the May, 1970 Digest, written by Digest associate editor Eugene Methvin. The article was reviewed in the April 30 Herald issue.)

Poage said the new Farm Bill actually bases all payments (with one minor exception for feed grains) on a farmer's production for domestic consumption.

"There are no payments for not growing crops," the newsletter continued. "On the contrary, it supplements farm income on that part of the crop which is used in the United States."

Cong. Poage said that because Members' constituents do not understand the program and this makes it "difficult" to get Members to support it.

Cong. Poage emphasized that "I am going to do my best" to get the most workable limitations and to pass legislation. He said the Rules Committee granted a rule July 29 to take up the bill. He expressed hope for a vote on the rule Monday and debate Tuesday, with voting possibly coming Wednesday, August 5.

In other legislative news, Cong. Poage said the House is continuing an intermittent discussion of legislative reorganization. He added that the term has a different meaning for each individual and end of the discussion is not in sight.

Poage said he voted for two bill passed by the House on July 30. One extends programs for training in the allied health professions; the other extends the program for Federal assistance for mental retardation facilities and for community health centers.

"These are, of course, important," he said, "but I doubt if they are as important as our efforts to control the use of narcotics which are putting more patients in our mental hospitals each year than we can possibly rehabilitate."

Chickens, Beef Top Food List

Some markets are featuring all cuts of beef at special prices, this week, so check your ads for family preferences if you're beef hungry, suggests Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

"In general, look for best beef values on round steaks and roasts, chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef and short ribs," Mrs. Clyatt said. "Some good values may also be found on corned beef and rib and T-bone steaks."

Pork prices usually take an upward trend in the summer, but a few good buys can be found on chops, picnics, Boston butt roast and some brands of bacon, she said.

"Chickens continue to be a popular item and you can expect to find them reasonably priced, no matter whether you choose the chicken whole, cut-up or in pieces," Mrs. Clyatt said. "Turkey is featured in some markets and special values will be found on chicken hens."

Bananas are frequently featured at bargain prices, and peaches and nectarines are both plentiful, of excellent quality and moderately priced, she said. Several varieties of plums are on the market with Santa Rosa in greatest supply, she noted.

"Grapes, cantaloupes, watermelons, cherries, pineapples and lemons are other fruits available at attractive price levels," Mrs. Clyatt said. "Quality apples coming from controlled atmosphere storage are offered at moderate price levels."

There is a good variety at the fresh vegetable counter and available at reasonable prices, Mrs. Clyatt noted. Among the vegetable items available are cream, purple hull and black-eye peas, corn, okra, squash, carrots, bell peppers, potatoes, radishes and green onions.

Try Seedless Watermelon

The eating is as good, but the fun that many small fry have of spitting seeds when eating watermelon, is missing from the seedless watermelon.

The melon has no seeds, but small seedcoats are present in the meat of the melon, Dr. J. E. Larsen, Texas A&M University Extension horticulturist, said. The seedcoats look very much like a small, immature cucumber seed, both in size and color, and are completely edible, he said.

"Most seedless watermelons are of the Tri-X hybrid 313 variety and are dark green with faint, lighter green stripes," he explained. "The melon may occasionally have four or five mature seeds present in the meat, but this is rare."

Seedless watermelons are generally sweeter than other melons, Dr. Larsen said, and urged consumers to try one.

Dr. Larsen noted that seedless watermelons should be harvested only in the full ripe stage as there is no after - ripening after the melon is harvested.

"The seedless watermelon also has a longer shelf life than do the seeded varieties," Dr. Larsen said.

WHOSE FARM IS THIS? - The Herald still has some of the aerial photos of Milam County farms and ranches taken in 1958.

Cactus Is A Problem On Texas Rangelands

COLLEGE STATION

Pricklypear has become a severe problem on some 20 million acres of Texas rangeland and is a problem on approximately 75 million acres, a Texas A&M University Extension brush and weed control specialist reports.

"Severe pricklypear problems often exist where mechanical brush control methods have been used," Garlyn O. Hoffman said, adding that the noxious plant occurs with a density of 10 percent or more on about 35 million acres.

Several species of the genus, Opuntia, are called pricklypear and one or more species exist in almost every vegetational area of the state, he said.

The most common and widespread pricklypears known to Texas ranchmen are engelmann, nopal and plains; but also included in the same group are several types of chollas of which tasajillo, cholla and dog cactus provide the greatest problems on Texas rangelands, Hoffman continued, noting that dog cactus is injurious to grazing animals, particularly sheep and goats.

"Many ranchmen want to keep pricklypear for emergency feed during droughts and winter," he said. "Pricklypear have predominated after good range grasses were depleted by drought and over-utilization. Cattle are concentrated in pastures with dense stands which have been managed for the production of pricklypear."

SCS NEWS

Cooperators that have odd areas or areas that are not producing crops or grazing should give special attention to using this land as a multiple land use.

Wooded area or areas in the corner or along cropland field boundaries could be devoted to wildlife areas. Wooded areas would need underbrush thinning if brush is thick and food plant seeding, if not enough native seed producing plants exist.

Field border areas could be drilled to sorghums or other seed producing plants to provide food and cover for quail and doves.

Brush on rangeland that needs brush control could also serve as a secondary land use. When clearing brush, a few strips of brush approximately 200 or more feet wide could be left for wildlife. Squirrel, deer, dove and quail do well on this type of habitat.

Information is available to help you plan and apply secondary and multiple land use on your farms. If interested you can receive technical assistance by contacting your local Soil Conservation District Directors or Soil Conservation Service office.

HD AGENTS TO MEET

On August 4-6 the annual meeting of the Texas County Home Demonstration Agents will meet at Lubbock's KoKo Palace.

ASCS NEWS

By Alva E. Sanders

In the mounting concern over the environment, Milam County farmers stand out as pioneers. They've been doing a lot all along to improve overall quality of the environment and prevent and reduce pollution.

Many Americans are becoming more and more aware of pollution problems. However, for years the Nation's farmers have been steadily carrying out conservation measures that reduce pollution.

The sudden interest in environmental quality by great numbers of Americans is encouraging. All Americans have a tremendous stake in rebuilding a quality environment that will insure everyone clean air, clean water, and open spaces. If everyone will work and cooperate with each other, this job can be done.

ASCS, the U. S. Department of Agriculture farm programs agency, has long been sharing costs with farmers for conservation and pollution-prevention practices. Although many farmers practice conservation and anti-pollution practices on their own, cost-sharing helps assure consistently wise use of the Nation's soil and water resources. It helps pay for practices which farmers could not carry out by themselves to the extent needed in the public interest.

Conservation measures also provide immediate scenic and recreation benefits for everyone -- plus cleaner water and air for now and the future. At the same time, farmland not needed for crop production is conserved for future uses.

One important conservation practice, seeding of vegetative soil cover, has helped prevent erosion and siltation -- which are major pollution problems.

Green, growing, well-rooted cover keeps soil where it belongs and prevents it from washing into rivers, estuaries, and public water supplies. Engineers estimate that it costs 20 times as much to remove a cubic yard of silt from a river or harbor as it does to keep it where it belongs in the first place.

In addition to preventing siltation itself, vegetative cover prevents pollution by phosphorus, a basic plant nutrient, that moves with the soil, adding fuel for algae bloom and other forms of water pollution.

A few of the most important conservation accomplishments for 1969 in Milam County were:

Establishment of A-2, Permanent Pasture, 5,565 acres were planted in enduring cover for soil protection.

Construction of 86 Stockwater Dams, B-7A, to control erosion, serve 3,250 acres.

Construction of sod waterways, C-1, that serve over 85 acres. These waterways handle excess water, prevent erosion, and reduce pollution of downstream land, waterways, and reservoirs.

Construction of standard and diversion terraces that protect 584 acres by controlling erosion, managing water safely, and reducing pollution of streams.

Despite these successes, a recent conservation needs inventory shows that rural America is barely holding its own in conservation and anti - pollution work. For that reason, it is necessary to find ways for ASCS conservation and pollution - abatement practices to have even more impact in solving problems of environmental quality and preserving and enhancing soil, water, woodland, wildlife, and recreational resources.

More emphasis is being placed on practices and projects with greater community benefits. More effort is being made to enlist community support for cost-share conservation and pollution abatement practices that benefit the entire populace.

COUNTY AGENTS MEETING

The Texas County Agricultural Agents Association is holding their annual meeting in Longview, August 2-4. So, if your local county agent is missing during that time, he will be back with new information and ideas for doing his job.

The year-end buy that pays off three ways.

Cutlass 5 Holiday Coupe

1. You save big money when you buy it. The 4th Annual Year-End Sale is on now at your Oldsmobile dealer's--and the savings are substantial on every new Olds in his stock!
2. You save even more money as you drive it. Olds is famous for features that help keep costs down. Like Positive Valve Rotators in every V-8 for peak performance thousands of miles longer... rustproof inner fenders... aluminum exhaust system... bias-belted tires... many more!
3. You get a nice bonus at trade-in time. An Olds is a good investment--traditionally you get more of your dollars back when you're ready to trade the next time around.

If you think you can't afford an Oldsmobile...it's time to think again.

Trees & Shrubs Need Watering

Signs of moisture stress on trees and shrubs are most evident in a wilted condition of the leaves, Everett E. Janne, Texas A&M University Extension landscape horticulturist, has noted. "If a slight wilt on leaves during the afternoon recovers before sundown, the stress is not severe," Janne said. "However, should the leaves remain limp in the early evening, the tree should be given a deep soaking of water."

If the tree is planted in sandy soil, it should receive deep soakings every five to six days, however, if the tree base is in heavy, clay-like soil, waterings should be spaced to every seven to 10 days, he said. Heavy soils will take water more slowly but soils soak up water rapidly but also lose it faster because they are more porous, he explained. "The type of soil in which the tree or shrub is planted is a deciding factor in determining just how much water is adequate," Janne said. A plant growing in sandy soil will also need a larger volume of water because much of it will be lost through evaporation, Janne said, adding that watering in the morning will accomplish two desirable effects. "First, water is allowed time to soak into the ground before the midday sun evaporates much of it," Janne said. "Second, there will be less chance of mildew, fungi, and root rot."

"The plant will store up the water so you can water less frequently or decrease the soaking time a little and this will help to reduce the water bill."

A mulch of lawn clippings, manure or other organic materials will keep the soil moist longer, Janne said. A mulch of barnyard manure should be used only if the tree or shrub is not planted in the lawn, he added. In watering a tree, Janne advises that the watering area be larger than the circumference of the branches. Only then will the feeding roots of the tree be in moist soil, the horticulturist said.

"The fallacious notion that the main woody roots that sometimes protrude at the tree base are the organs through which water is absorbed, influences home gardeners to water just under the trunk of the tree," Janne explained. "It is the small feeder roots which spread about the same area as the above-ground portion of the tree that enable the plant to drink."

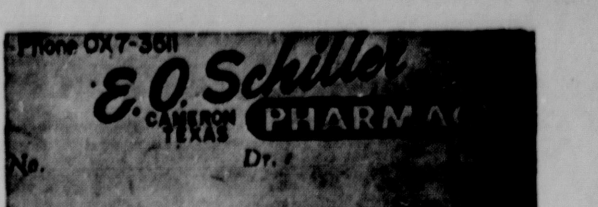

A basis of three to four feet in diameter around the base of a small tree may be sufficient, but larger trees may need a water sprinkler to cover the adequate area, Janne said.

Marvelous Minute

Cubed beef steaks are especially appropriate for summer cooking because they take so little time to prepare. For an intriguing entree, season the Italian way with oregano and basil and top each first-browned side with a slice of mozzarella or Romano cheese for added appeal.

Pork Kabob Partners

Pork is especially tasty when broiled on skewers. Inch cubes take from 25 to 30 minutes to broil to delicious doneness, a point to remember when selecting fruits and vegetables as kabob partners. Zucchini, parboiled carrots or eggplant, fresh onions or wedges of fresh pineapple or orange will be bright and tasty skewer partners. Or, choose cherry tomatoes, fresh mushrooms or canned onions or pineapple and arrange the pork and accompaniments on separate skewers. When the meat is almost done, put the other skewers on to broil.

MR. AND MRS. JOHNNY MANN

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Jeter - Mann

Miss Donna Bea Jeter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jeter and Mr. Johnny Mann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mann, were married Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Wirt Skinner performed the double ring ceremony. An arrangement of white gladioli and a single white candle decorated the altar.

The bride wore a white cotton lace dress, its softly gathered street length skirt accented at the waist with a pale blue satin ribbon. The sleeveless bodice was fashioned in bolero style. Her bridal nosegay was of white carnations and baby's breath with white lace and ribbon streamers. Her short veil of illusion was held by a cluster of satin rosebuds centered with the bride's bouquet.

Mrs. Roy Barmore served punch and the bride's sisters, Gail and Jinny Jeter, served the wedding cake, which was made in the shape of two wedding bells. A miniature bride and groom decorated the cake. The new couple will live in Houston, where both are employed.

Musical Camelot Opens Civic Theatre's Season

Lerner and Loewe's "Camelot" will be presented August 13, 14, and 15 at 8:15 p.m. at the Temple High School Auditorium with the combined talents of Temple Civic Theatre, the Cultural Activities Center, and the Temple High School Instrumental Music Department.

Tickets for "Camelot" will be on sale August 10 through 15 at the Cultural Activities Center, 318 W. Avenue G, Temple, from 2 until 8 p.m. Tickets will also be available at the auditorium at Temple High School from 7 to 8 p.m. on the nights of performance. There will be no reserved seats. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

The musical is the first play of the Temple Civic Theatre's 1970-1971 season. A reception in honor of the cast will be sponsored by the Contemporaries on opening night following the performance.

Based on T. H. White's novel, "The Once and Future King," when "Camelot" opened in New York on December 3, 1960, it was appraised as being the most lavish spectacle ever seen on Broadway. It ran for a very successful 25 months and at award time it won four "Tony's." The movie presentation of "Camelot" by Warner Bros. won three academy awards after its year long run.

"Camelot" provides audiences with a spectacular musical in retelling the oft-told tale of the medieval King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table. Jay Lerner's story begins with the first meeting of the youthful King Arthur and the beautiful Guenevere. It traces their days of happiness together and the events that led to Arthur's bitter failure to achieve his dream of peace and order for his kingdom, due to the villainy of Mordred and the traitorous love of Guenevere and Arthur's bravest knight, Lancelot.

Entwined through this romantic legend are some of Frederick Loewe's most lyrical song hits, including "If Ever I Would Leave You," "How To Handle A Woman," and the title song "Camelot."

The Royal Couple who rule over Camelot will be portrayed by Rick Donner and Mrs. William C. Childers as Arthur and Guenevere. Donner studied theatre at TJC and the University of Texas. He appeared in the role of ex-convict in the Temple Civic Theatre's presentation of "Wait Until Dark." Mrs. Childers has appeared in several TCT productions, most recently as Rosa in "Summer and Smoke."

Sir Lancelot, who can vanquish all foes, yet falls victim to his love for the king's wife, will be played by Joey Rotondo. Pellinore, played by Robert Wilds, is a medieval version of Colonel Blimp and Lee Madden will be seen as the famed magician, Merlin.

Arthur's natural son, Mordred, who conspires to his father's downfall, will be played by Bill Grear. Mrs. Herman Forrest will portray Morgan Le Fey, the wicked witch. Jeff Johnson is seen as Tom of Warwick. Other knights and ladies brought to life on the stage are John Bierschenk as Squire Dap; Sam Baker as Sir Dinadan; Gerald Dingus as Sir Sagamore; William Kozlik as Sir Lionel; Miss Paula Connally as Lady Anne; Mrs. Robert Larsen as Lady Catherine; Mrs. J. C. Barnes as Lady Sybil; Miss Carol Silverthorne as a "lady in waiting;" and Mrs. Carroll Forgy as Nimue. Tommy Brothers and Jeff Johnson play the heralds and pages. Carl Wheeler is seen as the priest.

The Citizens of Camelot who form the chorus are Miss Amy Aldrich, Sam Baker, Mrs. J. C. Barnes, Miss Marcine Bearor, John Bierschenk, Tom Birdsong,

Mrs. Orville Brewer, Dr. Joe Brothers, Mrs. Joe Brothers, Miss Karen Brothers, Chester Cadwallader, Mrs. Sam Cater, Jr., Miss Paula Connally, Mrs. Gerald Dingus, Sam Farrow, Miss Marna French, Mrs. Richard Gaines, Miss Pam Jeter, William Kozlik, Robert Larsen, Mrs. Robert Larsen, Miss Ellen Miller, Kendall Miller, Mrs. Will Miller, Charles Pyle, Clark Silverthorne, Steve Silverthorne, Gerry Starnes, Miss Sharon Van Dyck, Carl Wheeler, Miss Terry Wilson, and Mrs. Ronald Young.

Dancers are Sam Baker, John Bierschenk, Miss Karen Brothers, Chester Cadwallader, Miss Marna French, Miss Debbie Gideon, Bill Grear, William Kozlik, Kendall Miller, Miss Carol Silverthorne, Miss Carla Simpson, Miss Yvonne Stark, Gerry Starnes, Carl Wheeler, Mrs. Ronald Young, and Miss Jana Sue Zajicek.

Tumblers are Miss Paul Connally, Miss Ginger Johnson, Miss Ellen Miller, and Miss Jana Sue Zajicek.

The 20 member orchestra under the direction of Durward Howard includes Joseph Barta, Mrs. Robert Tulloch, Mrs. David Tullis, and Jimmy Marsh, violins; Mrs. John Bloomer, viola; Miss Tinka Stinson, cello; Beejy Carter, bass; John Sprott, percussion; Miss Linda McGill, flute and piccolo; Mrs. Mike Parker, oboe and English Horn; Miss Allison Miller and Mike Stirman, clarinets; Tom Heard and Miss Julie Stewart, horns; David Barfield, Larry Bennett, and Verl Childers, trumpets; Steve Hastings and Jeff Sunbury, trombones.

"Camelot" is designed and directed by Fred Goodson. Durward Howard is musical director and Charles Voelter is choral director. Choreographers are Mrs. Andrew Gullo and Mrs. Ronald Young.

Shower Honors Bride-Elect

Miss Renee Cummings, bride-elect of Mr. Mike Hensley, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John H. Mitchell.

Hostesses were Mrs. W. O. Harper, Mrs. J. A. Terry and Mrs. Mitchell.

Miss Ramona Cummings and Miss Carolyn Mitchell assisted the honoree with gifts. Guests were registered by Miss Gayle Harper.

Yellow roses with yellow and white streamers and a miniature bride and groom centered the refreshment table, which was laid with sequin floral white net over crystal and yellow candles completed the setting.

Finger sandwiches, olives, mints and punch were served by Miss Janet Marek and Mrs. Georgena Hillman.

Special guests included the honoree's mother, Mrs. Glynn Cummings, Mrs. Charles Hensley, mother of the prospective bridegroom, and Mrs. Margarite Skelton and Mrs. Clyde Hensley, grandmothers of the couple.

Miss Cummings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glynn Cummings and Mr. Hensley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hensley, will be married August 16 in the First Presbyterian Church.

A Plugged Nickel?

Although an ordinary "nickel" is worth only five cents, there are five "nickel" coins valued at $50,000 apiece. This came about because five unauthorized Liberty Head "nickels" were minted in 1913, the year the Buffalo design took over. The "nickel" is actually 25 per cent nickel and 75 per cent copper.

ENGAGED - Mrs. W. M. Buchanan of Cameron announces the engagement of her daughter Barbara Kay to Jimmy Len Roach, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Roach, also of Cameron. She is a 1970 graduate of Yoe High School. Jimmy served four years in the U.S. Navy and is presently living and employed in Deer Park. The couple will be married September 19 at the San Gabriel Baptist Church and will make their home in Deer Park.

Wood Deck, Sunscreen Bring Resort Flair to Back Yard

Deck, Shade, 'Parking' All in One

Sunscreen shades small deck, children's "parking lot" or storage area. Roof boards are spaced over deck to filter light, solid over storage for weather protection. Fence screen to hide small vehicles, toys or shelter chairs from showers may be board-on-board, louvers or other fencing design. Versatile unit may be built of any western lumber.

As the warm months move along, even new homeowners know where they can best place a sunscreen in the yard to filter glare and catch any cooling breezes.

Consider a garden shelter consisting of a small lounging deck, backed by an open port for children's vehicles and toys or folding chairs. Topped with a spaced and tilted sunscreen roof, it's sure to prove a family favorite.

The family work crew will need little more than hammer, saw, square and level for tools; nails, some bolts, cement and lumber, of course. Size of this deck-sunscreen is up to the builder. Four-foot modules are easy to work with, figuring that as the distance between deck stringers.

Siding Hides Stark Wall

To many homemakers, retaining walls may be like men—you can't live with them, and you can't live without them.

Essential to many building sites and landscaping projects, retaining walls are hard to beautify. You can plant ivy or some other trailing vine, then you wait and wait for it to grow over the concrete.

You can, however, add almost instant glamor by facing the concrete with wood siding. Stained clear or with color, it will soften and beautify the wall and blend it with the plantings.

If you are building a new wall, inset 2x2-inch furring strips into the cement before it sets. If the wall already exists, bolt 1x2-inch strips to it using expansion bolts.

Concrete nails are also effective, but require some experience for easy handling.

Next, nail a 1x6-inch western cedar baseboard to the strips and continue up with the boards until the siding covers the wall. Cap with a one-inch board and add a decorative top railing if desired.

Prestain the lumber for best results. Where it touches the ground, preservative-treated wood is advised.

For Storage Ideas

What house ever has enough storage? A booklet of five ingenious plans for adding extra storage space in tight quarters is available from Western Wood Products Assn., Dept. 532-P, Yeon Bldg., Portland, Or. 97204. Enclose 15 cents in coin.

Two decades ago, an average house cost around $13,500. In 1969, the house cost $26,000—but it had more living area, more bathrooms, more amenities, including appliances.

Leveling Stringers Vital

Decide which direction you'd prefer to run the deck boards, and your support stringers will be laid the opposite way. Four-foot intervals are adequate; if 2x6-inch stringers are used, they may extend eight feet between pads.

Level stringers over concrete pads set on firm earth, and posts if needed. Nail 2x6 blocking crosswise between stringers.

Space slightly the deck boards, preferably 2x4s flat or on edge.

To add the sunscreen, position 4x6-inch posts on the back side of the deck, set in two or more feet from the edges. Fill around posts with concrete to increase rigidity.

Prepare 2x4 beams and braces for bolting to each post, tilting the beams to slant the screen backwards. Fasten a few 1x2-inch slats across the beams near the ends.

Nailing Easier on Ground

Then lower roof assembly to ground for easier nailing of all the slats. Space slats across the beams over the deck to filter light and butt them solid over the storage area. Roll roofing here would complete the shower-proofing.

Lift completed assembly into place and bolt to the posts. Then fence between posts and enclosing sections to either side. Fence style can be plain board, board-on-board or louvered.

For a deck close to ground, pressure-treated western lumber for stringers is advisable. The structure needs no finish to weather naturally.

Screens Line Patio Room

A paved patio or wood deck takes on the dimensions of a real outdoor living room with the addition of peripheral screens and an overhead trellis.

Start by deciding where the screens will best add privacy to the patio. They may be made in solid sections from tongue-and-groove or edge-butted lumber, or they may have a spaced, open design.

Upright 4x4-inch corner posts of western wood, preferably pressure treated, should be set in concrete or bedded in gravel. Cap the posts with 2x4-inch beams, or larger. The screens are nailed to the beams.

To build the trellis, simply nail horizontal wood members across the beams at 12-inch intervals. Benches may be built along the screens for added seating space.

Conceal trash cans, firewood and other backyard clutter in compact storage units of matching wood built outside one screen.

To obtain a 13-page color illustrated idea booklet showing the sun trellis and other outdoor projects, write to Western Wood Products Assn., Dept. 537-P, Yeon Bldg., Portland, Or. 97204. Enclose 15 cents in coin.

Strange Origins Of Some Common Words

"CURFEW" — We hear this word a lot today, though it still has an old-fashioned flavor about it. It started in the Middle Ages, when peasants were required to cover their fires before nightfall. The signal for this was the ringing of the "cover-fire" bell. French for this is "couvre-feu". The

Get The Light From GOD'S LIGHTHOUSE GUIDE YOU TO HIS CHURCH

Don't Swear!

It's a Bible command... a common-sense law of life. "Thou shalt not take the name of The Lord Thy God in vain." THEN WHY DO YOU DO IT??? Careless habit? Limited vocabulary? Calloused soul? ... JUST WHY DO YOU DO IT? "The Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." Man, too, will hold you guilty. The members of your family, — the fellows in your office, — the stranger on the street ... none of them like it! Your family deserves better of you. Your neighbors expect better of you. God requires better of you. Go to church and break the swearing habit. Learn to respect and honor and reverence God's name. Please don't swear!

Seek The CITY Whose Builder Is GOD

Maroons 2nd In Regional Playoff

"Those kids played the kind of baseball you only see on television," Coach N. E. Barron said of the Cameron Maroons after they were named runner-up team in the district state playoff at Gatesville.

The Maroons were downed by Clifton, 6-5 in the bottom of the 11th inning in the final game Friday night. This was the first Pony League team from Cameron to reach the finals, Barron said.

In the tourney held last week, the Maroons beat Bremond 12-3, Methodist Home of Waco 5-4, and Gatesville 4-2 in their advance to the finals.

A large trophy was brought home from the tourney and each player will receive an individual trophy.

"The pitching, hitting, and fielding was outstanding," Barron said. "I don't know of much more to say other than the kids wouldn't take no for an answer -- they only know how to win."

The coaches, Bill Hornung, Johnny Springer and I would say we had a wonderful season with a wonderful bunch of boys. Their attitudes, and their hustle was tremendous," Barron said.

An incident that particularly pleased the team and coaches was the compliment paid them by the announcer making presentations of trophies after the last game, Barron said.

The announcer said that "the Cameron Maroons had the best attitude and best sportsmanship of any club they'd seen in the tournament."

The Maroons ended their Cameron season with 10 wins and 2 losses.

CTC Advisor To Meet Area Students At Yoe

Sheridan D. Cavitt, supervisor of Testing and Counseling at Central Texas College, will visit a Yoe High School on August 10 to give area high school graduates the opportunity to pre-register for the fall semester at Central Texas College.

Cavitt will be at the high school from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m., in order to pre-register those interested in attending Central Texas College in the fall, and to course plan and schedule their classes.

A $5.00 pre-registration fee, which will be applied to the cost of tuition and fees, will be required.

By pre-registering, students will have the advantage of choosing their courses at times most convenient to them, and will avoid the long waiting lines of final registration.

Fall semester classes at Central Texas College will begin August 31. All new day students enrolled must attend Orientation on August 27. Students interested in applying for financial assistance and/or dormitory reservations may pick up applications from Cavitt.

Central Texas College, located between Killeen and Copperas Cove, is fully accredited by the Southern Association of College and Schools. Only two and one-half years old, it has been recognized as one of the outstanding junior colleges in the nation.

The College offers students both Technical - Vocational training and academic training, complete with Associate Degrees which are transferable to senior colleges for completion of Baccalaureate Degrees.

Wall Paneling 3rd In Fix-up Parade

Paneling walls is the third most popular home improvement project in America.

Only new lighting fixtures and floor tiles exceed wall paneling as a home improvement project, says the Bureau of Building Marketing Research, Chicago.

A color illustrated idea booklet, "What You Can Do With Paneling," is available from Western Wood Products Assn., Dept. 504-P, Yeon Bldg., Portland, Or. 97204. Enclose 15 cents in coin.

"Super" Bugs

If your neighbor complains that there must be at least a million different bugs at work in his garden, believe him. Or at least sympathize with him. Scientists have already identified a million bugs, and there may be a many more yet to be identified.

To non-scientific bug-watchers, listening to all the talk about modern pesticides and chemical residues, the big mystery is why everyday garden insects haven't been eliminated.

First reason is rapid reproduction. Take the aphid, for instance. If only a few aphids escape during your regular, every-two-weeks spraying, the entire garden can be repopulated, sometimes within a week. Then, there's the question of how you spray. Spraying the tops of the leaves won't do; insects hide on the stems and under the leaves where it's cooler. Be thorough when you spray, covering both sides of the leaves.

Motorcycle Racers To Compete

Professional and sportsman motorcycle road racers from throughout the State of Texas and some from other states to include California, will compete in the third annual Austin Aqua Festival Motorcycle Road Races, 9 a.m., August 9, conducted on city streets around the Auditorium and Chamber of Commerce complex.

In the entire United States, this is the only sanctioned road race to be run on actual public streets; all others are run on specially prepared race courses.

The event for the 1970 Austin Aqua Festival, set for August 7-16, is sponsored by the Kapitatz Motorcycle Club. Approximately fifty racers are expected to compete for trophies and cash prizes over the one mile course which includes a straightaway on Riverside Drive where speeds of 100 m.p.h. are reached.

Racing in the event will be Rusty Bradley, a twenty-year old college student from Dallas, winner of the 76 mile race for amateurs at the Alabama International Motor Speedway at Talladega, Alabama last May. In winning the race, Bradley set an absolute motor cycle race speed record for this country, doing it on a smaller 500 cc bike usually ridden in the amateur class.

Also entering the race this year will be the renowned Mexican Racing Team from the Cambela Motorcycle Factory, generally among the top finishers in the 175 cc category.

Winston Stelter, millionaire racer from Houston, is also entered on his Yamaha TD 2 as is another tough competitor, Mike Cone of Sherman, Texas.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

STRAIGHTENING THE LINE

Towing your monofilament line out of the back of the boat while motoring slowly for a few hundred yards will remove the kinks and twists that result when fishing without use of a swivel.

HUNTING EXOTIC GAME

Exotic game hunting is increasing in the United States. There are at least five areas in this country where native game of Africa, India, Germany and even Russia can be hunted on private property for a fee.

BEAGLE GOOD HUNTER

A handy dog for either rabbit or squirrel hunting is the beagle. It can be trained to hunt either or both animals.

PROTECTION FROM THORNS

Bird hunters should wear chaps or padded leggings to protect them from thorns and scratches. If none is available, use the trousers of an old rain suit.

EMERGENCY TACKLE BOX

Plastic egg cartons make ideal small and handy tackle boxes, especially on a boat. Lures can be dropped into the light container compartments and kept handy for instant use or stored for safe keeping until needed.

RETRIEVING LURES

If you have trouble with lures hanging on old tree tops either above or below the water, try using an expandable golf ball retriever. They telescope out to 6 feet and are ideal for knocking plugs loose.

STURGEON FISHING

When you fish for sturgeon, you need heavy equipment. It is the largest freshwater fish in the world. There are more than 20 species and individual fish many times are larger than a man.

Views From Candidates Eggers

Republican candidate for Governor Paul Eggers told delegates to a statewide GOP leadership conference in Austin that Texans no longer assume that winning the Democratic nomination is "tantamount to election in November."
Eggers spoke Saturday at the closing luncheon of the two-day conference held at the Villa Capri Convention Center in Austin. The meeting, which was sponsored by the Republican Party of Texas, attracted more than 500 GOP county chairmen, precinct chairmen and party campaign workers from across the state.
"During my campaign travels this year, I have noticed a major attitude change that has taken place since my 1968 race," Eggers said. "It is no longer assumed that winning the Democratic nomination is tantamount to election in November."
Pointing to the reasons for these attitude shifts he stated, "The Texas voter is becoming more sensitive to issues rather than political party affiliation. He is more selective in his choice of candidates and there is an increasing number of Texans who are taking a position of independence."
"I certainly view these attitude changes as favorable to my candidacy and the polls indicate an even more significant response to my race. For example, a survey of the ticket-splitter shows I lead Mr. Smith by a 2-1 margin and I lead by an even greater margin among the state's independent voters."
Eggers told the conference delegates that he considered the reasons for the attitude change were obvious.
"Texans are tired of government by cronyism, government by political expediency, and government by crisis," he said. "Texans want a governor who will provide aggressive leadership for this state. And that's why we're going to win in November."

He advised them that legislation to free the individual gas producers from control would do much to stimulate exploration, help solve the supply problem, and keep the U. S. from having to be dependent on unstable, foreign sources.
Bush pointed out that Texas produces approximately one-half of all the natural gas produced each day in the U. S., but the industry is "rapidly approaching maximum deliverability." More has to be found, he said, and "I would venture that the consumer will be the real beneficiary of any increase in gas supply."
Also, Bush said there is "an urgent need to protect our environment" through clean-burning natural gas energy.
Because "it is clearly in the national interest that we find gas and develop it," Bush urged the FPC to take action on the following points: (1) Remove low ceiling prices set for Texas natural gas sales; (2) Review the whole question of gas price regulation; (3) Speed up price-setting proceedings which in the past have taken from 5 to 8 years to complete; and (4) Do everything possible to reduce uncertainty which now plagues the gas industry.

mine... to be extracted from us through new taxes.
But I have a different idea... a non-political one!
I say that our already over-taxed citizens cannot, and should not be expected to, put up the vast amounts of money needed to clean up our environment and to pay future antipollution costs. Instead, this is a cost that should be levied directly upon those responsible... without any apology and without any delay!

Bentsen

Texas apparently is being discriminated against in federal programs designed to aid migrant workers, U. S. Senate candidate Lloyd Bentsen declared after a conference with State Health Department officials here.
The Democratic nominee also criticized the Nixon administration for recommending that the Clinical Research Center in Fort Worth, one of two federal narcotics hospitals in the country, be closed.
Bentsen toured the Fort Worth hospital in his continuing personal investigations of major problems he hopes to help solve as a U. S. Senator. He then conferred in Austin with Dr. James E. Peavy, State Health Commissioner, and members of his staff on the health problems of migrant workers.

"Health Department officials informed me that much duplication and wasted effort is involved in current programs for migrant workers, and that administration of them by federal officials should be greatly improved," Bentsen said.
"They also said that considerably more funds are needed to meet the needs of the approximately 300,000 persons (migrant workers and their families) in Texas. This is approximately one-fifth of the total (1,500,000) in the United States. But the figures I have seen do not indicate that Texas is getting its proportionate share of the federal funds."
"I do not understand, for instance, why only $4 per migrant was allocated by the federal government this year for a health program in Hidalgo County, Texas, while $200 per migrant was allocated for a similar program in California. According to a report compiled by the State Health Department, Hidalgo County was granted $160,000 to provide health services for 40,000 migrants while a program to provide similar services for 3,000 migrants in California was allocated $632,000."

Fullerton

(Excerpt of remarks - Public Reception Tuesday, July 28, 1970 Athens, Texas)
All at once we are face to face with the most overpowering menace in the total history of human existence! When I say "we" I mean all of us, every person, every animal, every plant, and every living thing.
This enemy if more devastating than disease and more destructive than war. No evil device ever concocted by man compares with this spectre, and yet it was man himself who created it.
This great threat to our very survival is, of course, POLLUTION.
Finding ways to cope with this monstrous problem is an immediate crisis, and once under control, must continue as a crusade by all mankind for all time to come.
As usual, there are several ways to attack the problem and, as usual, my opponent Ben Barnes takes the purely political approach. At an "Earth Day" rally in Austin he said the legislature "is ready to spend as much money as necessary on anti-pollution." Obviously, the money he refers to is yours and

Bush

U. S. Congressman George Bush of Houston feels the nation is "on the brink of a severe and long-lasting energy crisis." He says the federal government's natural gas price control policies are not helping solve the problem.
Bush was called on by the Federal Power Commission to be the lead-off witness at a public hearing in Midland, July 29, on natural gas pricing.

CELIA JOINS PARADE of angry 'girls' arriving to wreck death and destruction to the Texas coast. Remember the others? There was little advance warning of the Great Galveston Storm of 1900 -- the worst natural disaster in U. S. history. However, with today's early warning from the U. S. Weather Bureau, loss of life from hurricanes is kept at a minimum. Local residents recall Carla, whose winds and rain reached the Cameron area, and brought hundreds of evacuees into local centers.

Bell Reviews Storms... Hurricane 'Girls' Angry

Between now and late fall is open season for girl watching. However, this special season's girls don't appear in miniskirts wearing someone else's hair and walking heavy in black lizard boots.
They arrive angry, full of devastating winds and rain and spewing deadly tornadoes. Only their name resembles a real live girl.
Four times in the past 13 years Southwestern Bell has tangled with hurricanes which have caused in excess of $10.5 million to telephone plant and equipment -- knocking out more than 242,000 telephones.
One by one they came. The parade began with Audrey, then came Carla and Cindy and finally Beulah.
In 1957 Audrey struck in early June, inflicting almost $1 million in damage to Southwestern and Southern Bell facilities.
Carla -- the worst of them all for Southwestern Bell -- hit the Texas coast in 1961, knocking out 166,000 phones and causing $6.5 million in damage to telephone installations. Hurricane Carla is the second largest hurricane of record.
Cindy sneaked a fast punch in 1963. Although she knocked out only 8,300 stations, the money loss hit the half million mark.
Beulah, the fourth largest hurricane of record, hit near Brownsville in September of 1967 and knocked out some 61,000 stations. Telephone facilities suffered more than $2.5 million in damages.
Thanks to up-to-date early warning devices, girl watching has fast become a science. With the U. S. Weather Bureau keeping a close eye on them, people now have ample time to move inland from a potentially disastrous area. This hasn't always been true.
For example, on September 14, 1919 a hurricane hit near Corpus Christi taking the lives of 184. Another in 1915 killed at least 275 near Galveston. And then there was the Great Galveston Storm of 1900 -- the worst natural disaster in U. S. history -- where loss of life has been estimated at 6,000 to 8,000, but the exact number never has been definitely ascertained.
Although 34 persons died in Hurricane Carla, the evacuation of an estimated 250,000 persons kept loss of life low. Hurricane Beulah caused only 13 deaths, mainly because residents along the coast moved inland well before the full force of the storm struck.
Not only are there early warnings by the U. S. Weather Bureau of pending hurricanes, but the Bell System, through advances in organization and planning, is able to greatly accelerate the speed of restoration once a hurricane hits.
In 1938, before today's sophisticated storm warning system, a hurricane along the upper East Coast knocked out 597,000 telephones and restoration took 28 days.
But in 1960, a similar storm (Donna) disrupted service for 490,000 telephones and restoration time was only six days.

Information on Drug Abuse

To fill an essential need not now being met for effectively providing sound and up-to-date information for everyone, a National Clearinghouse for Drug Abuse Information has been created to give the public one central office to contact for help.

The Clearinghouse will collect and disseminate materials and data taken not only from Federal programs but also from appropriate private and State and local projects.

Materials will be made available, for example, on drug education curricula that are already being used in various cities and states around the country. The Clearinghouse will also maintain a computer data bank on a wide variety of drug abuse programs. This will make possible much more detailed answers to queries than is possible under present decentralized, uncoordinated systems.

First publication to go into the new Clearinghouse is a 42-page booklet, "A Federal Source Book: Answers to the Most Frequently Asked Questions About Drug Abuse." Representing the latest factual information, the booklet was produced cooperatively by the Departments of Justice; Health, Education, and Welfare; Defense; Labor; and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

This marks the first time that all of the concerned Federal departments and agencies have pooled their resources and knowledge in such a manner on drug abuse. Copies of the booklet are being made available by the Clearinghouse.

Inquiries handled by the Clearinghouse in its first year of operation, beginning in April of this year, are expected to amount to more than half a million. During its first year, the Clearinghouse anticipates distributing over 5,000,000 pamphlets and will stimulate sales of many millions more through the U.S. Government Printing Office.

The Clearinghouse is operated by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare's National Institute of Mental Health Administration, as an overall Federal government drug information service.

Already, the Clearinghouse has begun providing services and will become fully operational in the fall of 1970.

Address of the new service, which anyone may use, is: National Clearinghouse for Drug Abuse Information National Institute of Mental Health 5454 Wisconsin Avenue Chevy Chase, Maryland 20015

The county may levy and collect taxes to pay the interest on the bonds as it becomes due and to provide a sinking fund for redemption of the bonds."

Cameron Team In State Play-Offs

Cardinals Insure Top State Berth

Cameron's Little League Cardinals insured a top berth in State Little League playoffs with 3 wins Monday and Tuesday at Brownwood. They are Cameron's first team to qualify for state Little League playoffs.

The Cardinals went to state by defeating three area teams, two with previously undefeated season records, at regional play-offs in Robinson last week.

Taking a first game 13 - 3 loss at Brownwood Monday morning against Odessa, the Cardinals stayed in the playoffs with an 8 - 0 win against Martha Monday night and a 14 - 7 win over Palestine Tuesday.

It was an up - hill climb for the Cardinals who lost 3 early games in the Cameron Little League schedule, then recorded a string of wins that put them in local playoffs and a final undisputed 15 - 4 win over the Indians for the Cameron crown.

Pitted against the top teams from area cities, the Cardinals, with "pick-up" players Dennis Hollas, Mark Michalka and Joe Smitherman, scored three straight wins at regional play-offs to take that trophy and the bid for state.

Between the regional victory at Robinson and state play-offs at Brownwood came fast footwork on the part of Little League officers and team members' parents.

Contacts Saturday brought community support that financed the trip to Brownwood and team members, coaches and parents left Sunday afternoon.

Contributions came from: Andler Lumber Co., Milam Auto Supply, Ray Goetz, Gus Plental, New Cameron Drug Western Auto, Schiller Pharmacy, Ray Lester, Weld Hardware, Mack's Oil, Bernicees, Max Shumate, George Hollas, Penny's, Schig's, Citizens National Bank, Irving's, Lewis Chili Shop, Lincoln Mondrik, and First National Bank.

Regular Cardinal players are Gene Goetz, Joey Mondrik, Allen Jones, Gerry Heitman, Donny Joe Marek, James Thompson, Richard Raymond, James McCullin, Ronnie McCall, James Harden, Mike Barr, Rudy Barbosa, Eugene Mekush and Curtis Wise.

North Austin from 16th to High US 77;
North Jackson from 18th to 22nd.

East 13th from Milam to Jackson;
20th from Fannin to end of street.

Karnes from 16th to 22nd Streets Supt. James Hale has recommended that base work on streets to be paved start this fall and winter to facilitate packing and settling.

In other business, the Council authorized construction of a shed for the landfill machine; approved routine bills and department head reports; and agreed to confer the title of "Honorary Citizen of Cameron" on a Peruvian exchange student due to visit Milam County.

The minutes from an executive meeting called Monday night were read at Tuesday's regular meeting. The Monday session was apparently concerned with ironing out problems in the City Police Department.

CISD TRUSTEES TO SET BUDGET

The meeting will be held in the superintendent's office at 8 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend.

City To Resume Paving Program

City Council agreed Tuesday evening to renew a street paving program for several residential areas on an assessment basis.

The paving plans were started in October of last year and were postponed when demands on street budget funds caused the budget to run over.

Mayor E. A. Perrin recommended to Councilmen that plans be resumed, with continuation of solicitation by residents living on the streets to be paved, and preparations for the assessment program starting.

Streets included in paving plans are:

North Crockett from 4th and 12th.

Arneti Zelisko, elementary principal, urges parents to register new students to avoid delay on the opening day of school.

Shrinking?

"What, oh what, will a nickel buy?" could well be the cry of youngsters in the inflation-ridden 1970's. The nickel in Junior's pocket will likely stay there if toys or sweets are his desire.

The 5-cent candy bar has long been the way of the nickel whistling slightly improved (in the candy bar case that means a fraction larger) but now costing a dime.

Although some local stores still have a stock of 5-cent gum, as soon as it is sold replacement stock will be joining the ranks of the once nickel roll of Life-savers - now selling for 7 and 8 cents a package.

Although 5-cent candy bars are still available, as one local clerk remarked, "they're so small it's hardly worth the trouble to unwrap them." And few stores offer them for sale.

Celia Brings 1st Rain In 62 Days

Cameron's first rain in 62 days fell Monday accompanied by winds estimated at 30 miles per hour. Although dropping only a scant .22 inch of rain, the afternoon shower gave local gardeners a brief rest from months of daily watering.

The wind and rain, spawned by Hurricane Celia, brought the total rainfall for the year to 19.16 in Cameron.

Meanwhile, in the Corpus Christi area, Hurricane Celia with winds gusting over 145 miles per hour left a path of wrecked homes, roofless buildings, overturned cars and streets littered with broken glass.

Some refugees from the stricken area arrived in Milam County late Monday, but most had sought shelter further south.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. officials said one employee from Rockdale had joined a team of telephone repairmen that left Austin at 5 a.m. Tuesday to restore telephone communication in the storm area.

County Patrolman Jerry Randall of Rockdale was among Department of Public Safety personnel dispatched to the coastal disaster scene.

James Hollas, former Cameron Herald newsman now with the Corpus Christi Caller Times, made phone connection with his family in Cameron Tuesday afternoon reporting an "unbeliev-

Other officers elected by directors at a meeting Monday night were Mrs. George Clark, vice president; Mrs. Don Marquart, secretary; Stewart Perkins, treasurer.

Directors reviewed a monthly Library expense statement that showed $458.22 disbursed for book purchases in July and $762.91 on hand for additional books, including a $625.00 state grant.

Traffic Mishaps Injure 2

A rash of "fender benders" was reported by Cameron Police Department and county DPS patrolmen, however only minor injuries were reported in two of the traffic mishaps.

John Wayne Klein of Killeen was treated in a local hospital for a broken arm and bruises following a motorcycle - car accident Monday shortly after noon.

Klein's motorcycle collided with a car driven by Elbrida G. Vasquez of Cameron at the intersection of 4th and Jefferson. She was ticketed for failure to yield right of way.

A collision at North Austin and Highway US 77 Sunday sent Mrs. Minnie Vybral to a local hospital where she was treated for bruises. The car in which she was riding, driven by Ben Vybral of Rt. 4 Cameron, collided with a car driven by Linda A. Laywell of Cameron. Vybral was ticketed for following too close.

Another Sunday accident was reported by DPS Patrolman Milton Wright. According to Wright, a pickup driven by Jerry Don Barton of Rt. 3 Cameron apparently collided with the rear of a car driven by John C. Jetter of Rosenberg.

That accident occurred at 6:10 p.m. Sunday 1.2 miles south of the city on US 77.

Other accidents were at Washington and 16th Saturday at about 6 p.m. and at North Travis and W. 4th Thursday at 5:30 p.m.

Joe Colbert of Cameron was ticketed for driving on the wrong side of the road and Fred A. Reed of Cameron ticketed for failure to yield right of way in Saturday's accident.

Rosco W. Speer of Cameron was ticketed for improper backing in the Thursday mishap involving a station wagon driven by Gary Lynn Strutz, also of Cameron.

TB Tests Scheduled For 1st, 7th Grades

Cameron first and seventh graders will receive Tuberculosis skin tests this fall according to CISD officials.

The TB skin tests will be given to all students in the two classes during September and readings will be taken of all children tested after a three-day period.

1966 Brazos Shooting . . . Injury Suit Opens Here

A jury was selected and testimony began Tuesday in Milam County District Court in a suit for personal injuries growing out of a shooting incident that occurred in Brazos County in September 1966.

The suit, involving two brothers, is being tried in District Court here on a change of venue from Brazos County. Plaintiff

Clarence W. Cobb is seeking $50,000 in actual damages and a similar amount in punitive damages. Ralph Y. Cobb is the defendant in the action.

Attorneys for the plaintiff are Robert K. Ramsey and Robert L. Ellett. Defense attorneys are Mac L. Bennett, Jr., W. T. Bennett and Don Humble.

Judge W. C. Wallace is presiding in the case.

Testimony started at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon with Brazos County Sheriff J. W. Hamilton on the witness stand briefly to identify the gun allegedly used in the shooting incident.

Clarence Cobb took the stand and related the events leading up to the shooting which occurred on September 11, 1966.

He said that on that date, a Sunday, he and another man named Harry Kinney were driving a small herd of his cattle from his home place down a road to a corral on adjoining land. This was part of the estate which his late father had left in trust.

As they reached it, he asked Kinney to open the gate, but Kinney said it was wired shut. Clarence Cobb said he rode up, dismounted from his horse, and looked at the gate. Then he saw Ralph Y. Cobb sitting in a pickup nearby.

On cross examination, when asked if Ralph Cobb had not said he wired the gate closed and not to open it, he replied he said something indistinguishable. Earlier it was stated that Ralph Cobb had leased that tract of the estate land.

Clarence Cobb testified he then started walking toward the pickup truck and saw Ralph Cobb pull a gun and told him, "Put the damn gun up."

He was shot in the side the first time, he testified, then as he was backing away, Ralph Cobb got out of the pickup truck and shot him a second time in the chest near his heart, knocking him down.

He was taken to a hospital in Bryan, he said, and remained hospitalized eleven days.

Clarence Cobb was still on the witness stand Tuesday afternoon when court was recessed until Wednesday morning by Judge Wallace. His later testimony mostly concerned his mental and physical condition after the shooting, which he said included pains in the chest and arm, and inability to perform hard physical work as before. He also listed financial losses he had incurred.

The jury was completed about 11:45 Tuesday morning. Jurors are: W. N. Galbreath, Bentley I. Hause, Secorro Garza, Wm. B. (Mike) Lee, Charles Kunz, Eliza Smith, Lee O. Keen, W. O. Schlender, Edward Garcia, B. L. Miller, Ben Hardie Bailey and Gus Backhouse III.

Better Library, More Books . . .

The Cameron Public Library now has about 8,000 volumes on its shelves, up from the original 3,000 volumes moved there when it opened in May, 1966.

Book count in the newer building, now about to undergo some basic repair on foundation, has then almost tripled in four years.

That is more than 40 per cent increase each year since the new structure opened. And it is only part of the program. A story hour is underway each week during this part of summer.

A small library of records for check out is available as well as increasing reference works and offering a cultural center for library boosters and related functions.

Cameron Public Library has proved an asset to the community and outlying areas it serves, no wider because of the reduced numbers of people within the Milam trade area.

Made even better by these additional books and current building improvement, Cameron Public Library is indeed a place where ideas and progress begin.

Industry, People, Political Power

WHAT OTHERS SAY . . .

The 1968 presidential election showed how political power was ebbing from the once almost dominant states of the Northeast. Now current studies of development trends show how industrial power is doing the same. Thus the economics department of McGraw-Hill finds that by 1975 some 47 percent of the country's industrial output will come from what it describes as the southern tier of states as compared with only 34 percent as recently as 1953. This is a phenomenally swift shift in industrial development.

Obviously, these findings have immense implications. Many of the states now developing most swiftly in industry are also among the fastest growing population.

They are, therefore, draining off congressional representation from both the Northeast and the upper Middle West. Furthermore, these states tend, on the whole, to be politically conservative.

Aside from the political implications, the change in the nation's industrial balance also has far-reaching economic and social meaning. Unless the Northeast can halt the trend or find new ways to self-development, its cities, already in dire straits, will find their problems steadily aggravated and the tax structure, the highest in the nation, will become still less favorable. Thus the swift shift in industrial power presents America with one more grave national challenge.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

NATURAL GAS SHORTAGE LOOMS

Rep. Frank T. Bow (Ohio) "... In my continuing study of the serious implications of a natural gas shortage, I have come upon an excellent statement on the situation by Herbert D. Clay, president of the National Fuel Gas Co., to the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs. . . . (The condensed statement follows.)

Mr. Chairman, my name is Herbert D. Clay, I am President of the National Fuel Gas Company and Chairman of the Government Relations Committee of the American Gas Association (A.G.A.). I am appearing today on behalf of A.G.A. and the National Fuel Gas Company. Both organizations are greatly concerned about the domestic natural gas supply situation and our ability to satisfy rapidly increasing consumer demands.

I would like to emphasize a few principal points in about a 10-minute summary. On December 15, 1968, the American Gas Association (A.G.A.) through a letter from its then President W. Morton

Jacobs to the Federal Power Commission took what was admittedly an extraordinary step. The A.G.A. letter said distributors were having difficulty in contracting for increases in long-term gas supplies and recommended that the Federal Power Commission act to provide additional economic incentives for exploration and development. THIS MEANT HIGHER FIELD PRICES WHICH MOST DISTRIBUTORS HAD IN THE PAST VIGOROUSLY RESISTED.

This was neither a timid nor a reckless step by A.G.A. It was taken only after very careful consideration. In major public interest or government matters, NO ONE LIKES TO DO AN ABOUT FACE. But it was deemed necessary at the time, and events have supported that decision.

In April 1969 we reached that point of "real cause for concern," because reserves added did not keep up. WE FOUND LESS THAN WE PRODUCED—40% LESS.

Certain gas companies in the heart of the industrial midwest curtailed their activities for new business and began to deny accounts which they had sought for years. One company had to shut down some major industrial plants for 6 days during the peak January cold spell--the FIRST TIME THAT HAD EVER HAPPENED. A north central pipeline withdrew a major expansion proposal for lack of supply. Evidence of actual shortage was no longer theoretical or prospective, IT WAS HERE.

Suffice to say, there is no doubt whatsoever that we have a serious domestic natural gas shortage.

There isn't just a gas shortage. There's an energy shortage. And there are compelling public interest reasons why the solution to our particular part of the energy shortage should have top priority.

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

The natural gas producers, the people who drill the wells, and the distributors, the people who supply the consumer, belong to different organizations.

The producers want a higher price at the wellhead, regulated by the Federal Power Commission, to encourage exploration. The distributors have resisted a wellhead price increase, which they have to pay, because it means passing it along to the consumer. And consumers get very unhappy with price increases. But a possible gas shortage has forced the distributors to do "an about face," as Mr. Clay states.

There is no shortage of natural gas reserves under-

Campaigns Shaping On Proposed Amendments

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN Campaigns are shaping up on some of the seven proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on by Texans at the General Election on November 3. While public interest centers on the liquor - by - the - drink amendment, there are other major alterations in the state's laws to be considered by the voters. In their order on the ballot, these are:

1. Enlarge the powers of the Judicial Qualifications Commission to censure or remove lower court judges and justices of the peace as well as district and appellate judges.
2. Authorize the legislature to enact a law on the sale of mixed drinks.
3. Provide for legislative establishment of a uniform method of tax assessment on ranch, farm and forest lands based on the capability of the lands to support the raising of livestock or production of farm and forest crops.
4. Make the State Building Commission a three - member appointive agency.
5. Permit counties to issue road bonds up to one-fourth of their assessed real property valuation on a majority vote.
6. Make town or city homesteads of $10,000 and less exempt from forced sale (presently set at $5,000).
7. Allow the legislature to provide for consolidating offices and functions of government and for performance of governmental functions by contract between the political subdivisions in any county.

Texas voters have adopted 195 amendments to the 1876 constitution, over the years, and rejected 125.

DESEGREGATION SUITS

Federal negotiators report that only a few of the 38 Texas school districts, called on the carpet concerning segregation, had satisfactory plans for complying with U. S. guidelines. They conducted a two-day conference with school officials here and gave most of them another week to try and work out something or face a lawsuit by the U. S. Justice Department.

Negotiators suggested "pairing" of adjoining neighborhood school districts to get better racial balance.

Lufkin, Marshall, Midland and Katy found no ground for agreement with the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and Justice Department negotiators. Some complained that federal officials raised a new issue . . . that of integrating Mexican-Americans, as well as blacks. Most want to continue their efforts to find a way to comply with suggested plans.

Palestine reached a tentative agreement on pairing plans involving two grades in each school and requiring limited busing.

COURTS SPEAK

Alcoholic Beverage Commission's rules governing private clubs are headed for a U. S. Supreme Court test after the highest state court finally upheld the agency's regulation. Club operators claim "king's-r" against the rules while their appeal is "diligently pursued." Texas will be among the first states to challenge constitutionality.

ality of the new federal act extending voting rights to 18-year-olds.

State Supreme Court, splitting 5-4, held that a businessman could not collect a $10,000 libel judgement against a Denton newspaper for a story, based on an accurate account of a statement made at a city council meeting where it was erroneously reported that the man had declared bankruptcy.

La Raza Unida Party brought a mandamus suit in the Supreme Court to require its candidates' names to be placed on the general ballots in three South Texas counties (Dimmitt, LaSalle and Zavala).

Supreme Court agreed with an intermediate court decision that judges cannot grant occupational drivers' licenses just so those whose licenses have been suspended can get to work.

LOOPHOLE COSTS

State has lost millions in land revenue due to an old loophole in the law, which was temporarily closed last year.

State Land Office has been forced to sell submerged land for $1 an acre to any navigation district that wanted it. Another law permitted district to declare land so acquired surplus to their needs -- and sell it to the highest bidder.

So, Aransas County Navigation District, for example, acquired 604 acres near Rockport (in Little Bay) for $1 an acre, then resold to a corporation. Some 165 acres of property now is selling for $33,088 an acre.

Now, no more state-owned beaches, islands or submerged land may be sold or leased until the Interagency Natural Resources Council makes its final report to the legislature -- or until May 31, 1973 -- whichever date is first. Unless the legislature takes a permanent step, the Land Commissioner once more could be forced to sell land requested by navigation districts for $1 an acre.

RESERVE LAW SEMINAR SET

Highlight of a two-day Reserve Law Seminar which will be held in Austin Aug. 8-9 will be an address by Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes. The seminar, being held this year in conjunction with the annual convention of the Auxiliary Police and Reserve Law Officers Association of Texas, will feature a panel discussion by various persons across the state who have direct dealings with Auxiliary and Reserve police.

TEXAS ECONOMY EVIDENCE

Joe H. Jones, special research associate with the UT Bureau of Business Research, reports that a recession in Texas economy was clearly in evidence through the first half of 1970, with prospects for a significant economic recovery within the next six months appearing unlikely.

GAS PRICE RISE URGED

Federal Power Commission at hearings on natural gas prices in the Permian Basin was urged to end pricing controls or raise rates fast and substantially.

Commission examiner reopened the Permian Basin rate case that resulted in the establishment in 1965 of ceiling rates at well-head.

Witnesses, including producers and political officeholders, called on the commission also to halt "two-price" system for wells drilled before 1961 and new wells.

Some called the 1965 regulation a dismal failure that led to the current shortage in gas reserves.

Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin pledged full resources of his office against any effort at federal regulation of Texas interstate gas market. FPC now regulates gas moving interstate.

Labor Secretary Cites Construction Industry Agreement

WASHINGTON Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz has praised the Building and Construction Trades Department, AFL-CIO, and the national Participating Contractors Employers' Associations for their new agreement for settling costly jurisdictional disputes.

The two parties recently completed negotiations for amending the plan under which the 22-year-old National Joint Board settles jurisdictional disputes in the construction industry.

"The National Joint Board is a home-grown solution to the amicable settlement of labor problems in the building and construction industry which would otherwise over-tax the facilities of the National Labor Relations Board and the Federal courts.

Although it is privately financed by parties to the agreement, the facilities of the National Joint Board are available without charge to all contractors dealing with organized labor in the building and construction industry.

LONE STAR GAS REPORTS RECORD GAIN OF 40.6%

Record earnings were achieved by Lone Star Gas Company for the periods ended June 30, 1970, according to L. T. Potter, chairman.

Potter reported earnings per share of $1.94 for the 12 months compared with $1.38 per share for the same period in 1969. Net income for the 12 months rose $8,211,555 to $28,457,601, a 40.6% gain. Total operating revenues of approximately $252 million were up 10.4%. "Tight expense control was a major contributing factor in the net income advance," Potter said. "Other operating and maintenance expenses increased less than 4%."

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

To get my mind off some first-of-the-month bills the other day I was resting and reading a newspaper under my favorite shade tree, the one that's lined up with two other trees so that when the sun moves the next tree picks up the shade, then the next, and I can stay in one place all afternoon without shifting positions -- I know some people who are so poorly equipped to this, ahead and so unaware of the laws of nature they go to sleep in the shade and wake up in the sun -- and ran across an article that sort of pepped me up.

According to it, the head of a big financial conglomerate was explaining to his stockholders why the corporation was losing money and getting further and further into debt. "We are experiencing a negative cash flow," he said.

What this means, the writer of the article explained, was that the company was paying out more than it was taking in. In other words, he added, it couldn't make ends meet.

I prefer the company's explanation.

The trouble with this Johnson grass farm, for example, sounds a lot better when I say it's experiencing a negative cash flow rather than saying it's losing money.

Washington, for another example, would sound more comfortable if it'd report a negative cash flow instead of a 3-billion-dollar budget deficit.

The trouble with a lot of people's financial situation these days is not inflation, rising costs of everything, higher taxes or over-spending, it's just that when they get to the end of the month they find their household is experiencing a negative cash flow.

What everybody needs is a positive cash flow.

I'm glad to get this cleared up.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Matters of Opinion

"This suit," the friendly salesman told Fred, "will wear like iron."

About a year later, Fred brought the suit back and asked for a refund. He complained that the fabric was beginning to show signs of deterioration. When the store turned him down, he went to court to demand damages for breach of contract.

"Their salesman promised me that the suit would wear like iron," he said. "That was a false statement."

Nevertheless, the court rejected Fred's claim. The court said the

"There are some kinds of talk which no sensible man takes seriously."

But the law is stricter when it comes to matters of fact. Take this situation:

A home owner, selling his house assured the buyer that it was "in perfect condition." But at the first rain, the buyer found out that the house was honeycombed with leaks. He also found out that the problem had existed for years, defying costly efforts to clear it up.

Here, a court upheld the buyer's claim for damages. The court said the seller's statement that the house was "in perfect condition" had been a deliberate misstatement of fact.

Even a statement of opinion may be held binding, if the buyer has some special reason to put his trust in that opinion.

In one case a promoter of oil stocks, after winning the confidence of an unsophisticated farmer, sold him some shares in an obscure company. He did so after expressing an opinion of the stock's value that was enormously exaggerated.

But a court later nullified the sale. The judge said that, in of the confidential relationship between the parties, the promoter must have known his statement of opinion would carry the weight of a statement of fact.

salesman's statement was merely an expression of opinion, not a binding commitment.

As a general rule, the law permits a seller of merchandise to do a good deal of boasting in matters of opinion. The reason, in the words of Judge Learned Hand:

You can put that iron away! Permanent press shirts and dresses come out of an electric dryer ready to wear. Soft and fluffy. Not a wrinkle in sight. An electric dryer is safe for all your other fabrics, too. Dries even your most delicate things gently. And when you dry electrically, washday can be any day. No more waiting for the sun to shine. No more trips out to the line. It's just one step from wet to dry. Make your next washday a happy day. It's toss 'n wear easy with an electric dryer.

Buy Home Now? Reasons Good

Would you believe that now's the time to buy a house? Before you scream, "Interest rates are killers," consider a few key facts.

Yes, interest rates are high, but the analysts see no great decline for possibly years—the demand for money by government and business will keep the rates high.

Land costs and labor rates are expected to continue upward—the pressures are in that direction. Desirable sites in the growth areas are vanishing.

Builders are erecting fewer homes, as mobile homes and apartments push one-family conventionals toward No. 3 ranking. The basic trends should add to the home buyer's confidence, most building and financing officials agree.

Short Course For Cattlemen

By J. D. Moore

Beef Cattle Short course - August 17-18 at Texas A&M University, Memorial Student Center. The 20th Beef Cattle Short Course has two things of special interest to cattlemen in this state.

The Computer Cow Program, which will cost an additional $10, furnishes an opportunity for cattle breeders to try their animal breeding methods on a 50 cow herd by selecting replacement heifers, herd bull prospects and cull cows based on production information.

This will be started at Monday morning, August 17 continued by mail for about eight weeks or until five generations have been completed. Registration for the Computer Cow Program must be made by August 12 so proper preparation can be made.

The second and most important part for commercial cattlemen is a report from 18 breed associations on the best documented production information that they have on their breed as it relates to efficient beef production. This will answer some of the questions on the new breeds that have been recently imported as well as the use of dairy breeding in beef production.

Short course registration will be $7.50, banquet ticket $4.50 plus $10.00 more for those participating in the Computer Cow Program.

TREE & SHRUB PROBLEMS

Drought stress brings to light many problems on trees and shrubs that have lurked in the background.

Plants with diseases or damaged root systems cannot absorb enough water and nutrients under summer drought stress conditions to furnish all plant parts. When this happens, tips of branches die back, and leaf tips are scorched. On some plant types, leaf shedding follows.

Several problems may be involved in producing a given symptom. There is a general tendency to simplify diagnosis to a single causal factor; however, response to treatment may be disappointing if other factors are not considered. Symptoms may develop over an extended period of time and likewise correction of that condition may require a longer period of time than desired.

A large number of plant specimens have been received in the Plant Disease Diagnostic Laboratory this summer with many of them having been damaged by plant pathogenic organisms. Very often, however, other factors are involved and these are often difficult to identify.

DROUGHT STRESS

Some conditions may be simply due to drought stress. Native plants should be less affected than introduced species.

On trees and large shrubs, leaves usually scorch around the leaf edges. When this occurs, there is either an insufficient moisture supply or the functional root system is insufficient to absorb suitable quantities of water.

OVERFERTILIZATION

Some shade trees and shrubs are being damaged by excess use of commercial fertilizers. Symptoms produced by this are also more evident during drought periods because the salt is concentrated in a smaller volume of water.

Damage has been observed on oak trees especially where an excess of 1,000 pounds of fertilizer has been used per acre per year. While such rates may be conducive to lush growth of lawn grass, it serves to burn roots of certain plants.

Oak tree roots are much nearer the surface than most homeowners realize, and lawn fertilization does affect them. Continued use of high rates over a period of years may have a cumulative effect that is detrimental to certain shade trees.

HERBICIDES

A number of specimens have been received this year where herbicides have been improperly used. In most cases, such damage occurred when a fertilizer containing herbicide was used around trees and shrubs.

In practically every case, homeowners admit the use of such products on the lawn, but deny their use around trees and shrubs. This presents us with an educational opportunity to indicate the extent of plant root development. It also opens the door to warn against indiscriminate use of pesticides especially encouraged by "combination" materials.

MECHANICAL INJURY

New home construction takes its toll of native shade trees each year leaving the homeowner wondering if he is a victim of some new plant disease epidemic.

Death of native trees damaged by construction usually occurs about three years after construction at which time their food reserves are depleted. This varies, of course, with initial vigor of the tree, extent of damage, and the type of tree involved.

Such damage can be prevented by following suggestions made in Extension publication "MP-788" entitled Protection of Existing Landscape Trees.

NATURAL GAS LEAKS

Natural gas is not very toxic to plants; yet, its presence in high concentrations in soil may prove fatal. It damages plants by replacing oxygen in the soil with methane gas, resulting in suffocation of the root system.

Plants may be saved if the leak can be detected and corrected in its early stages.

LAWN SUMMER NEEDS

Treat for chinch bugs - migrating chinch bugs are moving into those "better-kept" lawns for a place to over-winter. Three pounds of Diazinon 14 B granules per 1,000 sq. feet will solve this problem.

Next, fertilize with five pounds of ammonium nitrate per 1,000 sq. feet to re-vitalize the grass plants.

AG INFORMATION SCORES

Texas A&M's Department of Agricultural information won 8 awards in the 1970 Communications Award Program sponsored by the National Association of American College Editors. The news section won excellent ratings on the Weekly News packet and radio script service; a very good on magazine service and a white or good rating on a radio feature.

Poage Reports Farm Bill Debate

(Editor's Note: House farm leaders called off floor action on a new farm bill Monday. They said they wanted President Nixon's firm assurance that he would fight efforts to lower a committee-approved $55,000 limit on yearly farm payments.)

The proposed Farm Bill, now under debate in Washington, is "a good example of the way emotions play a larger influence than facts and figures in passing legislation," according to Cong. W. R. Poage.

The Central Texas Congressman, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said a great deal of misunderstanding exists about farm subsidy payments.

"Many people have over the years been led to believe that our farm program simply gives large operators vast sums of money without any contribution from these operators," Poage said in his weekly newsletter.

"It is just as foolish as stating that we are 'contributing' vast sums to wealthy landlords when we pay them for the property we take for either urban renewal or highway rights - of way - and much of this criticism has been promoted by recipients of comparable subsidies.

"For instance, the Reader's Digest gets about $9 1/2 million postal subsidy, but it suggests that all farm payments should be limited to $20,000, and it won't give the other side a chance to be heard in its columns," Poage continued.

(Poage was referring to an article in the May, 1970 Digest, written by Digest associate editor Eugene Methvin. The article was reviewed in the April 30 Herald issue.)

Poage said the new Farm Bill actually bases all payments (with one minor exception for feed grains) on a farmer's production for domestic consumption.

"There are no payments for not growing crops," the newsletter continued. "On the contrary, it supplements farm income on that part of the crop which is used in the United States."

Cong. Poage said that because Members' constituents do not understand the program and this makes it "difficult" to get Members to support it.

Cong. Poage emphasized that "I am going to do my best" to get the most workable limitations and to pass legislation. He said the Rules Committee granted a rule July 29 to take up the bill. He expressed hope for a vote on the rule Monday and debate Tuesday, with voting possibly coming Wednesday, August 5.

In other legislative news, Cong. Poage said the House is continuing an intermittent discussion of legislative reorganization. He added that the term has a different meaning for each individual and end of the discussion is not in sight.

Poage said he voted for two bills passed by the House on July 30. One extends programs for training in the allied health professions; the other extends the program for Federal assistance for mental retardation facilities and for community health centers.

"These are, of course, important," he said, "but I doubt if they are as important as our efforts to control the use of narcotics which are putting more patients in our mental hospitals each year than we can possibly rehabilitate."

Chickens, Beef Top Food List

Some markets are featuring all cuts of beef at special prices, this week, so check your ads for family preferences if you're beef hungry, suggests Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

"In general, look for best beef values on round steaks and roasts, chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef and short ribs," Mrs. Clyatt said. "Some good values may also be found on corned beef and rib and T-bone steaks."

Pork prices usually take an upward trend in the summer, but a few good buys can be found on chops, picnics, Boston butt roast and some brands of bacon, she said.

"Chickens continue to be a popular item and you can expect to find them reasonably priced, no matter whether you choose the chicken whole, cut-up or in pieces," Mrs. Clyatt said. "Turkey is featured in some markets and special values will be found on chicken hens."

Bananas are frequently featured at bargain prices, and peaches and nectarines are both plentiful, of excellent quality and moderately priced, she said. Several varieties of plums are on the market with Santa Rosa in greatest supply, she noted.

"Grapes, cantaloupes, watermelons, cherries, pineapples and lemons are other fruits available at attractive price levels," Mrs. Clyatt said. "Quality apples coming from controlled atmosphere storage are offered at moderate price levels."

There is a good variety at the fresh vegetable counter and available at reasonable prices, Mrs. Clyatt noted. Among the vegetable items available are cream, purple hull and black-eye peas, corn, okra, squash, carrots, bell peppers, potatoes, radishes and green onions.

Try Seedless Watermelon

The eating is as good, but the fun that many small fry have of spitting seeds when eating watermelon, is missing from the seedless watermelon.

The melon has no seeds, but small seedcoats are present in the meat of the melon. Dr. J. E. Larsen, Texas A&M University Extension horticulturist, said. The seedcoats look very much like a small, immature cucumber seed, both in size and color, and are completely edible, he said.

"Most seedless watermelons are of the Tri-X hybrid 313 variety and are dark green with faint, lighter green stripes," he explained. "The melon may occasionally have four or five mature seeds present in the meat, but this is rare."

Seedless watermelons are generally sweeter than other melons, Dr. Larsen said, and urged consumers to try one.

Dr. Larsen noted that seedless watermelons should be harvested only in the full ripe stage as there is no after-ripening after the melon is harvested.

"The seedless watermelon also has a longer shelf life than do the seeded varieties," Dr. Larsen said.

Cactus Is A Problem On Texas Rangelands

COLLEGE STATION

Pricklypear has become a severe problem on some 20 million acres of Texas rangeland and is a problem on approximately 75 million acres, a Texas A&M University Extension brush and weed control specialist reports.

"Severe pricklypear problems often exist where mechanical brush control methods have been used," Garlyn O. Hoffman said, adding that the noxious plant occurs with a density of 10 percent or more on about 35 million acres.

Several species of the genus, Opuntia, are called pricklypear and one or more species exist in almost every vegetational area of the state, he said.

The most common and widespread pricklypears known to Texas ranchmen are engelmann, nopal and plains, but also included in the same group are several types of chollas of which tasajillo, cholla and dog cactus provide the greatest problems on Texas rangelands, Hoffman continued, noting that dog cactus is injurious to grazing animals, particularly sheep and goats.

"Many ranchmen want to keep pricklypear for emergency feed during droughts and winter," he said. "Pricklypear have predominated after good range grasses were depleted by drought and over-utilization. Cattle are concentrated in pastures with dense stands which have been managed for the production of pricklypear."

SCS NEWS

Cooperators that have odd areas or areas that are not producing crops or grazing should give special attention to using this land as a multiple land use.

Wooded area or areas in the corner or along cropland field boundaries could be devoted to wildlife areas. Wooded areas would need underbrush thinning if brush is thick and food plant seeding, if not enough native seed producing plants exist.

Field border areas could be drilled to sorghums or other seed producing plants to provide food and cover for quail and doves.

Brush on rangeland that needs brush control could also serve as a secondary land use. When clearing brush, a few strips of brush approximately 200 or more feet wide could be left for wildlife. Squirrel, deer, dove and quail do well on this type of habitat.

Information is available to help you plan and apply secondary and multiple land use on your farms. If interested you can receive technical assistance by contacting your local Soil Conservation District Directors or Soil Conservation Service office.

HD AGENTS TO MEET

On August 4-6 the annual meeting of the Texas County Home Demonstration Agents will meet at Lubbock's KoKo Palace.

ASCS NEWS

By Alva E. Sanders

In the mounting concern over the environment, Milam County farmers stand out as pioneers. They've been doing a lot all along to improve overall quality of the environment and prevent and reduce pollution.

Many Americans are becoming more and more aware of pollution problems. However, for years the Nation's farmers have been steadily carrying out conservation measures that reduce pollution.

The sudden interest in environmental quality by great numbers of Americans is encouraging. All Americans are a tremendous stake in rebuilding a quality environment that will insure everyone clean air, clean water, and open spaces. If everyone will work and cooperate with each other, this job can be done.

ASCS, the U. S. Department of Agriculture farm programs agency, has long been sharing costs with farmers for conservation and pollution-prevention practices. Although many farmers practice conservation and anti-pollution practices on their own, cost-sharing helps assure consistently wise use of the Nation's soil and water resources. It helps pay for practices which farmers could not carry out by themselves to the extent needed in the public interest.

Conservation measures also provide immediate scenic and recreation benefits for everyone - plus cleaner water and air for now and the future. At the same time, farmland not needed for crop production is conserved for future uses.

One important conservation practice, seeding of vegetative soil cover, has helped prevent erosion and siltation - which are major pollution problems.

Green, growing, well-rooted cover keeps soil where it belongs and prevents it from washing into rivers, estuaries, and public water supplies. Engineers estimate that it costs 20 times as much to remove a cubic yard of silt from a river or harbor as it does to keep it where it belongs in the first place.

In addition to preventing siltation itself, vegetative cover prevents pollution by phosphorus, a basic plant nutrient, that moves with the soil, adding fuel for algae bloom and other forms of water pollution.

A few of the most important conservation accomplishments for 1969 in Milam County were:

Establishment of A-2, Permanent Pasture, 5,565 acres were planted in enduring cover for soil protection.

Construction of 86 Stockwater Dams, B-7A, to control erosion, serve 3,250 acres.

Construction of sod waterways, C-1, that serve over 85 acres. These waterways handle excess water, prevent erosion, and reduce pollution of downstream land, waterways, and reservoirs.

Construction of standard and diversion terraces that protect 584 acres by controlling erosion, managing water safely, and reducing pollution of streams.

Despite these successes, a recent conservation needs inventory shows that rural America is barely holding its own in conservation and anti-pollution work. For that reason, it is necessary to find ways for ASCS conservation and pollution-abatement practices to have even more impact in solving problems of environmental quality and preserving and enhancing soil, water, woodland, wildlife, and recreational resources.

More emphasis is being placed on practices and projects with greater community benefits. More effort is being made to enlist community support for cost-share conservation and pollution abatement practices that benefit the entire populace.

Trees & Shrubs Need Watering

Signs of moisture stress on trees and shrubs are most evident in a wilted condition of the leaves, Everett E. Janne, Texas A&M University Extension landscape horticulturist, has noted.

"If a slight wilt on leaves during the afternoon recovers before sundown, the stress is not severe," Janne said. "However, should the leaves remain limp in the early evening, the tree should be given a deep soaking of water."

If the tree is planted in sandy soil, it should receive deep soakings every five to six days, however, if the tree base is in heavy, clay-like soil, waterings should be spaced to every seven to 10 days, he said. Heavy soils will take water more slowly but hold it longer, whereas sandy soils soak up water rapidly but also lose it faster because they are more porous, he explained.

"The type of soil in which the tree or shrub is planted is a deciding factor in determining just how much water is adequate," Janne said.

A plant growing in sandy soil will also need a larger volume of water because much of it will be lost through evaporation, Janne said, adding that watering in the morning will accomplish two desirable effects.

"First, water is allowed time to soak into the ground before the midday sun evaporates much of it," Janne said. "Second, there will be less chance of mildew, fungi, and root rot."

"The plant will store up the water so you can water less frequently or decrease the soaking time a little and this will help to reduce the water bill."

A mulch of lawn clippings, manure or other organic materials will keep the soil moist longer, Janne said. A mulch of barnyard manure should be used only if the tree or shrub is not planted in the lawn, he added.

In watering a tree, Janne advises that the watering area be larger than the circumference of the branches. Only then will the feeding roots of the tree be in moist soil, the horticulturist said.

"The fallacious notion that the main woody roots that sometimes protrude at the tree base are the organs through which water is absorbed, influences home gardeners to water just under the trunk of the tree," Janne explained. "It is the small feeder roots which spread about the same area as the above-ground portion of the tree that enable the plant to drink."

A basis of three to four feet in diameter around the base of a small tree may be sufficient, but larger trees may need a water sprinkler to cover the adequate area, Janne said.

Marvelous Minute

Cubed beef steaks are especially appropriate for summer cooking because they take so little time to prepare. For an intriguing entree, season the Italian way with oregano and basil and top each first-browned side with a slice of mozzarella or Romano cheese for added appeal.

Pork Kabob Partners

Pork is especially tasty when broiled on skewers. Inch cubes take from 25 to 30 minutes to broil to delicious doneness, a point to remember when selecting fruits and vegetables as kabob partners. Zucchini, parboiled carrots or eggplant, fresh onions or wedges of fresh pineapple or orange will be bright and tasty skewer partners. Or, choose cherry tomatoes, fresh mushrooms or canned onions or pineapple and arrange the pork and accompaniments on separate skewers. When the meat is almost done, put the other skewers on to broil.

Musical Camelot Opens Civic Theatre's Season

Lerner and Loewe's "Camelot" will be presented August 13, 14, and 15 at 8:15 p.m. at the Temple High School Auditorium with the combined talents of Temple Civic Theatre, the Cultural Activities Center, and the Temple High School Instrumental Music Department.

Tickets for "Camelot" will be on sale August 10 through 15 at the Cultural Activities Center, 318 W. Avenue G, Temple, from 2 until 8 p.m. Tickets will also be available at the auditorium at Temple High School from 7 to 8 p.m. on the nights of performance. There will be no reserved seats. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

The musical is the first play of the Temple Civic Theatre's 1970-1971 season. A reception in honor of the cast will be sponsored by the Contemporaries on opening night following the performance.

Based on T. H. White's novel, "The Once and Future King", when "Camelot" opened in New York on December 3, 1960, it was appraised as being the most lavish spectacle ever seen on Broadway. It ran for a very successful 25 months and at award time it won four "Tony's." The movie presentation of "Camelot" by Warner Bros. won three academy awards after its year long run.

"Camelot" provides audiences with a spectacular musical in retelling the old-told tale of the medieval King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table. Jay Lerner's story begins with the first meeting of the youthful King Arthur and the beautiful Guenevere. It traces their days of happiness together and the events that led to Arthur's bitter failure to achieve his dream of peace and order for his kingdom, due to the villainy of Mordred and the traitorous love of Guenevere and Arthur's bravest knight, Lancelot.

Entwined through this romantic legend are some of Frederick Loewe's most lyrical song hits, including "If Ever I Would Leave You," "How To Handle A Woman," and the title song "Camelot."

The Royal Couple who rule over Camelot will be portrayed by Rick Donner and Mrs. William C. Childers as Arthur and Guenevere. Dorner studied theatre at TJC and the University of Texas. He appeared in the role of ex-convict in the Temple Civic Theatre's presentation of "Wait Until Dark." Mrs. Childers has appeared in several TCT productions, most recently as Rosa in "Summer and Smoke."

Sir Lancelot, who can vanquish all foes, yet falls victim to his love for the king's wife, will be played by Joey Rotondo. Pellinore, played by Robert Wilds, is a medieval version of Colonel Blimp and Lee Madden will be seen as the famed magician, Merlin.

Arthur's natural son, Mordred, who conspires to his father's downfall, will be played by Bill Grear. Mrs. Herman Forrest will portray Morgan Le Fey, the wicked witch. Jeff Johnson is seen as Tom of Warwick. Other knights and ladies brought to life on the stage are John Bierschenk as Squire Dap; Sam Baker as Sir Dinadan; Gerald Dingus as Sir Sagamore; William Kozlik as Sir Lionel; Miss Paula Connally as Lady Anne; Mrs. Robert Larsen as Lady Catherine; Mrs. J. C. Barnes as Lady Sybil; Miss Carol Silverthorne as a "lady in waiting;" and Mrs. Carroll Forgy as Nimue. Tommy Brothers and Jeff Johnson play the heralds and pages. Carl Wheeler is seen as the priest.

The Citizens of Camelot who form the chorus are Miss Amy Aldrich, Sam Baker, Mrs. J. C. Barnes, Miss Marcine Bearor, John Bierschenk, Tom Birdsong,

Mrs. Orville Brewer, Dr. Joe Brothers, Mrs. Joe Brothers, Miss Karen Brothers, Chester Cadwallader, Mrs. Sam Cater, Jr., Miss Paula Connally, Mrs. Gerald Dingus, Sam Farrow, Miss Marna French, Mrs. Richard Gaines, Miss Pam Jeter, William Kozlik, Robert Larsen, Mrs. Robert Larsen, Miss Ellen Miller, Kendall Miller, Mrs. Will Miller, Charles Pyle, Clark Silverthorne, Steve Silverthorne, Gerry Starnes, Miss Sharon Van Dyck, Carl Wheeler, Miss Terry Wilson, and Mrs. Ronald Young.

Dancers are Sam Baker, John Bierschenk, Miss Karen Brothers, Chester Cadwallader, Miss Marna French, Miss Debbie Gideon, Bill Grear, William Kozlik, Kendall Miller, Miss Carol Silverthorne, Miss Carla Simpson, Miss Yvonne Stark, Gerry Starnes, Carl Wheeler, Mrs. Ronald Young, and Miss Jana Sue Zajicek.

Tumblers are Miss Paul Connally, Miss Ginger Johnson, Miss Ellen Miller, and Miss Jana Sue Zajicek.

The 20 member orchestra under the direction of Durward Howard includes Joseph Barta, Mrs. Robert Talloch, Mrs. David Tullis, and Jimmy Marsh, violins; Mrs. John Bloomer, violas; Miss Tinka Stinson, cello; Beej Carter, bass; John Sprott, percussion; Miss Linda McGill, flute and piccolo; Mrs. Mike Parker, oboe and English Horn; Miss Alison Miller and Mike Stirman, clarinets; Tom Heard and Miss Julie Stewart, horns; David Barfield, Larry Bennett, and Verl Childers, trumpets; Steve Hastings and Jeff Sunbury, trombones.

"Camelot" is designed and directed by Fred Goodson. Durward Howard is musical director and Charles Voelter is choral director. Choreographers are Mrs. Andrew Gullo and Mrs. Ronald Young.

Shower Honors Bride-Elect

Miss Renee Cummings, bride-elect of Mr. Mike Hensley, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John H. Mitchell.

Hostesses were Mrs. W. O. Harper, Mrs. J. A. Terry and Mrs. Mitchell.

Miss Ramona Cummings and Miss Carolyn Mitchell assisted the honoree with gifts. Guests were registered by Miss Gayle Harper.

Yellow roses with yellow and white streamers and a miniature bride and groom centered the refreshment table, which was laid with sequin floral white net over yellow satin. Appointments of crystal and yellow candles completed the setting.

Finger sandwiches, olives, mints and punch were served by Miss Janet Marek and Mrs. Georgena Hillman.

Special guests included the honoree's mother, Mrs. Glynn Cummings, Mrs. Charles Hensley, mother of the prospective bridegroom, and Mrs. Margaret Skelton and Mrs. Clyde Hensley, grandmothers of the couple.

Miss Cummings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glynn Cummings and Mr. Hensley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hensley, will be married August 16 in the First Presbyterian Church.

A Plugged Nickel?

Although an ordinary "nickel" is worth only five cents, there are five "nickel" coins valued at $50.00 apiece. This came about because five unauthorized Liberty Head "nickels" were minted in 1913, the year the Buffalo design took over. The "nickel" is actually 25 per cent nickel and 75 per cent copper.

ENGAGED - Mrs. W. M. Buchanan of Cameron announces the engagement of her daughter Barbara Kay to Jimmy Len Roach, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Roach, also of Cameron. She is a 1970 graduate of Yoe High School, Jimmy served four years in the U.S. Navy and is presently living and employed in Deer Park. The couple will be married September 19 at the San Gabriel Baptist Church and will make their home in Deer Park.

Wood Deck, Sunscreen Bring Resort Flair to Back Yard

Deck, Shade, 'Parking' All in One

Sunscreen shades small deck, children's "parking lot" or storage area. Roof boards are spaced over deck to filter light, solid over storage for weather protection. Fence screen to hide small vehicles, toys or shelter chaise from showers may be board-on-board, louvers or other fencing design. Versatile unit may be built of any western lumber.

As the warm months move along, even new homeowners know where they can best place a sunscreen in the yard to filter glare and catch any cooling breezes.

Consider a garden shelter consisting of a small lounging deck, backed by an open port for children's vehicles and toys or folding chairs. Topped with a spaced and tilted sunscreen roof, it's sure to prove a family favorite.

The family work crew will need little more than hammer, saw, square and level for tools; nails, some bolts, cement and lumber, of course. Size of this deck-sunscreen is up to the builder. Four-foot modules are easy to work with, figuring that as the distance between deck stringers.

Beams for the sunshade may be slightly longer than the deck's width to allow for the slope, and also extend back to cover the storage area.

Siding Hides Stark Wall

To many homemakers, retaining walls may be like men—you can't live with them, and you can't live without them.

Essential to many building sites and landscaping projects, retaining walls are hard to beautify. You can plant ivy or some other trailing vine, then you wait and wait for it to grow over the concrete.

You can, however, add almost instant glamor by facing the concrete with wood siding. Stained clear or with color, it will soften and beautify the wall and blend it with the plantings.

If you are building a new wall, inset 2x2-inch furring strips into the cement before it sets. If the wall already exists, bolt 1x2-inch strips to it using expansion bolts.

Concrete nails are also effective, but require some experience for easy handling.

Next, nail a 1x6-inch western cedar baseboard to the strips and continue up with the boards until the siding covers the wall. Cap with a one-inch board and add a decorative top railing if desired.

Pre-stain the lumber for best results. Where it touches the ground, preservative-treated wood is advised.

For Storage Ideas

What house ever has enough storage? A booklet of five ingenious plans for adding extra storage space in tight quarters is available from Western Wood Products Assn., Dept. 532-P, Yeon Bldg., Portland, Or. 97204. Enclose 15 cents in coin.

Two decades ago, an average house cost around $13,500. In 1969, the house cost $26,000—but it had more living area, more bathrooms, more amenities, including appliances.

Leveling Stringers Vital

Decide which direction you'd prefer to run the deck boards, and your support stringers will be laid the opposite way. Four-foot intervals are adequate; if 2x6-inch stringers are used, they may extend eight feet between pads.

Level stringers over concrete pads set on firm earth, and posts if needed. Nail 2x6 blocking crosswise between stringers. Space slightly the deck boards, preferably 2x4s flat or on edge. To add the sunscreen, position 4x6-inch posts on the back side of the deck, set in two or more feet from the edges. Fill around posts with concrete to increase rigidity.

Prepare 2x4 beams and braces for bolting to each post, tilting the beams to slant the screen backwards. Fasten a few 1x2-inch slats across the beams near the ends.

Nailing Easier on Ground

Then lower roof assembly to ground for easier nailing of all the slats. Space slats across the beams over the deck to filter light and butt them solid over the storage area. Roll roofing here would complete the shower-proofing.

Lift completed assembly into place and bolt to the posts. Then fence between posts and enclosing sections to either side. Fence style can be plain board, board-on-board or louvered.

For a deck close to ground, pressure-treated western lumber for stringers is advisable. The structure needs no finish to weather naturally.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Jeter - Mann

Miss Donna Bea Jeter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jeter and Mr. Johnny Mann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mann, were married Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Wirt Skinner performed the double ring ceremony. An arrangement of white gladiolus and a single white candle decorated the altar.

The bride wore a white cotton lace dress, its softly gathered street length skirt accented at the waist with a pale blue satin ribbon. The sleeveless bodice was fashioned in bolero style. Her bridal nosegay was of white carnations and baby's breath with white lace and ribbon streamers. Her short veil of illusion was held by a cluster of satin rosebuds centered with the bride's bouquet.

Mrs. Roy Barmore served punch and the bride's sisters, Gail and Jinny Jeter, served the wedding cake, which was made in the shape of two wedding bells. A miniature bride and groom decorated the cake. The new couple will live in Houston, where both are employed.

Stainless in the Swim

Nickel stainless steel, because it resists corrosion, is the preferred material for swimming pool equipment and hardware. Between 1964 and 1969, the United States use of stainless in swimming pools doubled from 10 million pounds to 20 million pounds. By 1974, it should be on the order of 25 million pounds.

Beams for Homes

Glue-laminated beams are impressive long-span roof and ceiling features of many churches, gymnasiums and shopping centers. They're available from some lumber dealers too, in smaller sizes for homes.

Strange Origins Of Some Common Words

"CURFEW" — We hear this word a lot today, though it still has an old-fashioned flavor about it. It started in the Middle Ages, when peasants were required to cover their fires before bedtime. The signal for this was the ringing of the "cover-fire" bell. French for this is "couvre-feu." The 11th Century Normans took the word to England as "corfe" — the bell warning citizens it was time to be safely home.

"OUCHLESS" — This word was created to dramatize the unique features of a modern Curad bandage. Curads don't adhere to a wound; therefore, they can be removed without interrupting the healing process and without pain—hence, "ouchless!"

Screens Line Patio Room

A paved patio or wood deck takes on the dimensions of a real outdoor living room with the addition of peripheral screens and an overhead trellis. Start by deciding where the screens will best add privacy to the patio. They may be made in solid sections from tongue-and-groove or edge-butted lumber, or they may have a spaced, open design.

Upright 4x4-inch corner posts of western wood, preferably pressure treated, should be set in concrete or bedded in gravel. Cap the posts with 2x4-inch beams, or larger. The screens are nailed to the beams.

To build the trellis, simply nail horizontal wood members across the beams at 12-inch intervals. Benches may be built along the screens for added seating space.

Conceal trash cans, firewood and other backyard clutter in compact storage units of matching wood built outside one screen.

To obtain a 13-page color illustrated idea booklet showing the sun trellis and other outdoor projects, write to Western Wood Products Assn., Dept. 537-P, Yeon Bldg., Portland, Or. 97204. Enclose 15 cents in coin.

Plans are available for an additional 15 cents each.

Don't Swear!

It's a Bible command... a common-sense law of life. "Thou shalt not take the name of The Lord Thy God in vain." THEN WHY DO YOU DO IT??? Careless habit? Limited vocabulary? Calloused soul? ... JUST WHY DO YOU DO IT? "The Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." Man, too, will hold you guilty. The members of your family, — the fellows in your office, — the stranger on the street ... none of them like it! Your family deserves better of you. Your neighbors expect better of you. God requires better of you. Go to church and break the swearing habit. Learn to respect and honor and reverence God's name. Please don't swear!

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

STRAIGHTENING THE LINE

Towing your monofilament line out of the back of the boat while motoring slowly for a few hundred yards will remove the kinks and twists that result when fishing without use of a swivel.

HUNTING EXOTIC GAME

Exotic game hunting is increasing in the United States. There are at least five areas in this country where native game of Africa, India, Germany and even Russia can be hunted on private property for a fee.

BEAGLE GOOD HUNTER

A handy dog for either rabbit or squirrel hunting is the beagle. It can be trained to hunt either or both animals.

PROTECTION FROM THORNS

Bird hunters should wear chaps or padded leggings to protect them from thorns and scratches. If none is available, use the trousers of an old rain suit.

EMERGENCY TACKLE BOX

Plastic egg cartons make ideal small and handy tackle boxes, especially on a boat. Lures can be dropped into the light container compartments and kept handy for instant use or stored for safe keeping until needed.

RETRIEVING LURES

If you have trouble with lures hanging on old tree tops either above or below the water, try using an expandable golf ball retriever. They telescope out to 6 feet and are ideal for knocking plugs loose.

STURGEON FISHING

When you fish for sturgeon, you need heavy equipment. It is the largest freshwater fish in the world. There are more than 20 species and individual fish many times are larger than a man.

CTC Advisor To Meet Area Students At Yoe

Sheridan D. Cavitt, supervisor of Testing and Counseling at Central Texas College, will visit a Yoe High School on August 10 to give area high school graduates the opportunity to pre-register for the fall semester at Central Texas College.

Cavitt will be at the high school from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m., in order to pre-register those interested in attending Central Texas College in the fall, and to course plan and schedule their classes.

A $5.00 pre-registration fee, which will be applied to the cost of tuition and fees, will be required.

By pre-registering, students will have the advantage of choosing their courses at times most convenient to them, and will avoid the long waiting lines of final registration.

Fall semester classes at Central Texas College will begin August 31. All new day students enrolled must attend Orientation on August 27. Students interested in applying for financial assistance and/or dormitory reservations may pick up applications from Cavitt.

Central Texas College, located between Killen and Copperas Cove, is fully accredited by the Southern Association of College and Schools. Only two and one-half years old, it has been recognized as one of the outstanding junior colleges in the nation.

The College offers students both Technical - Vocational training and academic training, complete with Associate Degrees which are transferable to senior colleges for completion of Baccalaureate Degrees.

"Super" Bugs

If your neighbor complains that there must be at least a million different bugs at work in his garden, believe him. Or at least sympathize with him. Scientists have already identified a million bugs, and there may be many more yet to be identified.

To non-scientific bug-watchers, listening to all the talk about modern pesticides and chemical residues, the big mystery is why everyday garden insects haven't been eliminated.

First reason is rapid reproduction. Take the aphid, for instance. If only a few aphids escape during your regular, every-two-weeks spraying, the entire garden can be re-populated, sometimes within a week.

Then, there's the question of how you spray. Spraying the tops of the leaves won't do: insects hide on the stems and under the leaves where it's cooler. Be thorough when you spray, covering both sides of the leaves.

Motorcycle Racers To Compete

Professional and sportsman motorcycle road racers from throughout the State of Texas--and some from other states to include California--will compete in the third annual Austin Aqua Festival Motorcycle Road Races, 9 a.m., August 9, conducted on city streets around the Auditorium and Chamber of Commerce complex.

In the entire United States, this is the only sanctioned road race to be run on actual public streets; all others are run on specially prepared race courses.

The event for the 1970 Austin Aqua Festival, set for August 7-16, is sponsored by the Kaplitz Katz Motorcycle Club. Approximately fifty racers are expected to compete for trophies and cash prizes over the one mile course which includes a straightaway on Riverside Drive where speeds of 100 m.p.h. are reached.

Racing in the event will be Rusty Bradley, a twenty-year old college student from Dallas, winner of the 76 mile race for amateurs at the Alabama International Motor Speedway at Talladega, Alabama last May. In winning the race, Bradley set an absolute motorcycle race speed record for this country, doing it on a smaller 500 cc bike usually ridden in the amateur class.

Also entering the race this year will be the renowned Mexican Racing Team from the Carabela Motorcycle Factory, generally among the top finishers in the 175 cc category.

Winston Stelter, millionaire racer from Houston, is also entered on his Yamaha TD 2 as is another touch competitor, Mike Cone of Sherman, Texas.

Maroons 2nd In Regional Playoff

Natl. Keyboard Arts Appoints Teacher For Group Lessons

"Those kids played the kind of baseball you only see on television," Coach N. E. Barron said of the Cameron Maroons after they were named runner-up team in the district state playoff at Gatesville.

The Maroons were downed by Clifton, 6-5 in the bottom of the 11th inning in the final game Friday night. This was the first Pony League team from Cameron to reach the finals, Barron said.

In the tourney held last week, the Maroons beat Bremond 12-3, Methodist Home of Waco 5-4, and Gatesville 4-2 in their advance to the finals.

A large trophy was brought home from the tourney and each player will receive an individual trophy.

The pitching, hitting, and fielding was outstanding," Barron said. "I don't know of much more to say other than the kids wouldn't take no for an answer -- they only know how to win."

The coaches, Bill Hornung, Johnny Springer and I would say we had a wonderful season with a wonderful bunch of boys. Their attitudes, and their hustle were tremendous," Barron said.

An incident that particularly pleased the team and coaches was the compliment paid them by the announcer making presentations of trophies after the last game, Barron said.

The announcer said that "the Cameron Maroons had the best attitude and best sportsmanship of any club they'd seen in the tournament."

The Maroons ended their Cameron season with 10 wins and 2 losses.

As a Licensed Teacher of NK AA, Mrs. Stark will be giving specially designed group piano instruction. NKAA teachers are chosen for their experience, background and general interest in employing the best teaching techniques. She has attended NKAA training course for teachers this summer in preparation for offering this program in Cameron.

Mrs. Stark is presently studying under Mrs. Priscilla Heard at Temple Junior College.

NKAA has been developing its method for group piano study over the past several years. It is composed of a group of music educators who share the opinion that musical literacy for all is an attainable goal. The result of this collaboration has been the development of teaching materials which embody the basic principles of all good education. These study aids help take the student from the first step, making him ready for new learning, to the last step, making him independent of the need for a teacher's guidance.

CELIA JOINS PARADE of angry 'girls' arriving to wreck death and destruction to the Texas coast. Remember the others? There was little advance warning of the Great Galveston Storm of 1900 - the worst natural disaster in U. S. history. However, with today's early warning from the U. S. Weather Bureau, loss of life from hurricanes is kept at a minimum. Local residents recall Carla, whose winds and rain reached the Cameron area, and brought hundreds of evacuees into local centers.

Bell Reviews Storms . . . Hurricane 'Girls' Angry

Between now and late fall is open season for girl watching. However, this special season's girls don't appear in miniskirts wearing someone else's hair and walking heavy in black lizard boots.

They arrive angry, full of devastating winds and rain and spewing deadly tornadoes. Only their name resembles a real live girl.

Four times in the past 13 years Southwestern Bell has tangled with hurricanes which have caused in excess of $10.5 million to telephone plant and equipment - knocking out more than 242,000 telephones.

One by one they came. The parade began with Audrey, then came Carla and Cindy and finally Beulah.

In 1957 Audrey struck in early June, inflicting almost $1 million in damage to Southwestern and Southern Bell facilities.

Carla - the worst of them all for Southwestern Bell - hit the Texas coast in 1961, knocking out 168,000 phones and causing $6.5 million in damage to telephone installations. Hurricane Carla is the second largest hurricane of record.

Cindy sneaked a fast punch in 1963. Although she knocked out only 8,300 stations, the money loss hit the half million mark.

Beulah, the fourth largest hurricane of record, hit near Brownsville in September of 1967 and knocked out some 61,000 stations. Telephone facilities suffered more than $2.5 million in damages.

Thanks to up-to-date early warning devices, girl watching has fast become a science. With the U. S. Weather Bureau keeping a close eye on them, people now have ample time to move inland from a potentially disastrous area. This hasn't always been true.

For example, on September 14, 1919 a hurricane hit near Corpus Christi taking the lives of 184. Another in 1915 killed at least 275 near Galveston. And then there was the Great Galveston Storm of 1900 - the worst natural disaster in U. S. history - where loss of life has been estimated at 6,000 to 8,000, but the exact number never has been definitely ascertained.

Although 34 persons died in Hurricane Carla, the evacuation of an estimated 250,000 persons kept loss of life low. Hurricane Beulah caused only 13 deaths, mainly because residents along the coast moved inland well before the full force of the storm struck.

Not only are there early warnings by the U. S. Weather Bureau of pending hurricanes, but the Bell System, through advances in organization and planning, is able to greatly accelerate the speed of restoration once a hurricane hits.

In 1938, before today's sophisticated storm warning system, a hurricane along the upper East Coast knocked out 597,000 telephones and restoration took 28 days.

But in 1960, a similar storm (Donna) disrupted service for 490,000 telephones and restoration time was only six days.

Views From Candidates Eggers

Republican candidate for Governor Paul Eggers told delegates to a statewide GOP leadership conference in Austin that Texans no longer assume that winning the Democratic nomination is "tantamount to election in November."

Eggers spoke Saturday at the closing luncheon of the two-day conference held at the Villa Capri Convention Center in Austin. The meeting, which was sponsored by the Republican Party of Texas, attracted more than 500 GOP county chairmen, precinct chairmen and party campaign workers from across the state.

"During my campaign travels this year, I have noticed a major attitude change that has taken place since my 1968 race," Eggers said. "It is no longer assumed that winning the Democratic nomination is tantamount to election in November."

Pointing to the reasons for these attitude shifts he stated, "the Texas voter is becoming more sensitive to issues rather than political party affiliation. He is more selective in his choice of candidates and there is an increasing number of Texans who are taking a position of independence."

"I certainly view these attitude changes as favorable to my candidacy and the polls indicate an even more significant response to my race. For example, a survey of the ticket-splitter shows I lead Mr. Smith by a 2-1 margin and I lead by an even greater margin among the state's independent voters."

Eggers told the conference delegates that he considered the reasons for the attitude change were obvious.

"Texans are tired of government by cronyism, government by political expediency, and government by crisis," he said. "Texans want a governor who will provide aggressive leadership for this state. And that's why we're going to win in November."

He advised them that legislation to free the individual gas producers from control would do much to stimulate exploration, help solve the supply problem, and keep the U. S. from having to depend on unstable, foreign sources.

Bush pointed out that Texas produces approximately one-half of all the natural gas produced each day in the U. S., but the industry is "rapidly approaching maximum deliverability." More has to be found, he said, and "I would venture that the consumer will be the real beneficiary of any increase in gas supply."

Also, Bush said there is "an urgent need to protect our environment" through clean-burning natural gas energy.

Because "it is clearly in the national interest that we find gas and develop it," Bush urged the FPC to take action on the following points: (1) Remove low ceiling prices set for Texas natural gas sales; (2) Review the whole question of gas price regulation; (3) Speed up price-setting proceedings which in the past have taken from 5 to 8 years to complete; and (4) Do everything possible to reduce uncertainty which now plagues the gas industry.

mine . . . to be extracted from us through new taxes.

But I have a different idea - a non-political one!

I say that our already over-taxed citizens cannot, and should not be expected to, put up the vast amounts of money needed to clean up our environment and to pay future antipollution costs. Instead, this is a cost that should be levied directly upon those responsible . . . without any apology and without any delay!

Bentsen

Texas apparently is being discriminated against in federal programs designed to aid migrant workers, U. S. Senate candidate Lloyd Bentsen declared after a conference with State Health Department officials here.

The Democratic nominee also criticized the Nixon administration for recommending that the Clinical Research Center in Fort Worth, one of two federal narcotics hospitals in the country, be closed.

Bentsen toured the Fort Worth hospital in his continuing personal investigations of major problems he hopes to help solve as a U. S. Senator. He then conferred in Austin with Dr. James E. Peavy, State Health Commissioner, and members of his staff on the health problems of migrant workers.

"Health Department officials informed me that much duplication and wasted effort is involved in current programs for migrant workers, and that administration of them by federal officials should be greatly improved," Bentsen said.

"They also said that considerably more funds are needed to meet the needs of the approximately 300,000 persons (migrant workers and their families) in Texas. This is approximately one-fifth of the total (1,500,000) in the United States. But the figures I have seen do not indicate that Texas is getting its proportionate share of the federal funds."

"I do not understand, for instance, why only $4 per migrant was allocated by the federal government this year for a health program in Hidalgo County, Texas, while $200 per migrant was allocated for a similar program in California. According to a report compiled by the State Health Department, Hidalgo County was granted $160,000 to provide health services for 40,000 migrants while a program to provide similar services for 3,000 migrants in California was allocated $632,000."

Fullerton

(Excerpt of remarks - Public Reception Tuesday, July 28, 1970 Athens, Texas)

All at once we are face to face with the most overpowering menace in the total history of human existence! When I say "we" I mean all of us, every person, every animal, every plant, every living thing.

This enemy is more devastating than disease and more destructive than war. No evil device ever concocted by man compares with this spectre, and yet it was man himself who created it.

This great threat to our very survival is, of course, POLLUTION.

Finding ways to cope with this monstrous problem is an immediate crisis, and once under control, must continue as a crusade by all mankind for all time to come.

As usual, there are several ways to attack the problem and, as usual, my opponent Ben Barnes takes the purely political approach. At an "Earth Day" rally in Austin he said the legislature "is ready to spend as much money as necessary on anti-pollution." Obviously, the money he refers to is yours and

Bush

U. S. Congressman George Bush of Houston feels the nation is "on the brink of a severe and long-lasting energy crisis."

He says the federal government's natural gas price control policies are not helping solve the problem.

Bush was called on by the Federal Power Commission to be the lead-off witness at a public hearing in Midland, July 29, on natural gas pricing.

Information on Drug Abuse

To fill an essential need not now being met for effectively providing sound and up-to-date information for everyone, a National Clearinghouse for Drug Abuse Information has been created to give the public one central office to contact for help.

The Clearinghouse will collect and disseminate materials and data taken not only from Federal programs but also from appropriate private and State and local projects.

Materials will be made available, for example, on drug education curricula that are already being used in various cities and states around the country. The Clearinghouse will also maintain a computer data bank on a wide variety of drug abuse programs. This will make possible much more detailed answers to queries than is possible under present decentralized, uncoordinated systems.

First publication to go into the new Clearinghouse is a 42-page booklet, "A Federal Source Book: Answers to the Most Frequently Asked Questions About Drug Abuse." Representing the latest factual information, the booklet was produced cooperatively by the Departments of Justice; Health, Education, and Welfare; Defense; Labor; and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

This marks the first time that all of the concerned Federal departments and agencies have pooled their resources and knowledge in such a manner on drug abuse. Copies of the booklet are being made available by the Clearinghouse.

Inquiries handled by the Clearinghouse in its first year of operation, beginning in April of this year, are expected to amount to more than half a million. During its first year, the Clearinghouse anticipates distributing over 5,000,000 pamphlets and will stimulate sales of many millions more through the U.S. Government Printing Office.

The Clearinghouse is operated by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare's National Institute of Mental Health, Health Services and Mental Health Administration, as an overall Federal government drug information service.

Already, the Clearinghouse has begun providing services and will become fully operational in the fall of 1970.

Address of the new service, which anyone may use, is: National Clearinghouse for Drug Abuse Information, National Institute of Mental Health, 5454 Wisconsin Avenue, Chevy Chase, Maryland 20015

NUMBER FIVE ON THE BALLOT (HJR28)
General Election Nov. 3, 1970

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: Section 1. That Section 52, Article III, Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended to read as follows:

"Section 52. (a) Except as otherwise provided by this section, the Legislature shall have no power to authorize any county, city, town or other political corporation or subdivision of the State to lend its credit or to grant public money or thing of value in aid of, or to any individual, association or corporation whatsoever, or to become a stockholder in such corporation, association or company.

"(b) Under Legislative provision, any county, any political subdivision of a county, any number of adjoining counties, or any political subdivision of the State, or any defined district now or hereafter to be described and defined within the State of Texas, and which may or may not include, towns, villages or municipal corporations, upon a vote of two-thirds majority of the resident property taxpayers voting thereon who are qualified electors of such district or territory to be affected thereby, in addition to all other debts, may issue bonds or otherwise lend its credit in any amount not to exceed one-fourth of the assessed valuation of the real property of such district or territory, except that the total bonded indebtedness of any city or town shall never exceed the limits imposed by other provisions of this Constitution, and levy and collect taxes to pay the interest thereon and provide a sinking fund for the redemption thereof, as the Legislature may authorize, and in such manner as it may authorize the same, for the following purposes to wit:

"(1) The improvement of rivers, creeks, and streams to prevent overflows, and to permit of navigation thereof, or irrigation thereof, or in aid of such purposes.
